Chamber Hails Six-Day Shopping

The new legislation which will allow Victoria merchants to trade six days a week was welcomed yesterday by R. A. H. Lort, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce retail merchants' group.

He said the first Wednesday afternoon opening would be next week.

Last year the Victoria stores were permitted to remain open for trading on Wednesday afternoons during the months of July and August.

Daladier Tells Followers:

De Gaulle Will Take Over As Premier at Weekend

Vital Socialist Support Swinging to General

PARIS (CP)—The powerful Socialist party, major parliamentary stumbling block to Gen. Charles de Gaulle's bid for power, Friday night postponed a crucial decision on whether to back the wartime leader.

Whether the general would be prepared to go before the National Assembly and ask investiture as premier with full powers for at least a year depended on that decision.

DECISION TODAY?

The Socialists, meeting in the heavily-guarded National Assembly building, decided to adjourn their conference until this morning.

De Gaulle has said he will not take over the country's affairs unless he has the backing of all parties apart from the Communists.

De Gaulle arrived in Paris for continuing consultations on forming a "national salvation" government several hours after a conference at his country home with Socialist leader Guy Mollet and former president Vincent Auriol.

'A GREAT MAN'

Mollett, who flew to Colombey Friday afternoon for a 90-minute talk with de Gaulle, told reporters as he went into the National Assembly: "I have just returned from the company of a great man."

Edmond Naegelen, a prominent member of the Socialist group and a former Algerian governor-general, told reporters after the meeting:

"We have taken no decision. But the trend in favor of supporting de Gaulle seems to have been visibly strengthened after our deputies had heard Guy Mollet's report."

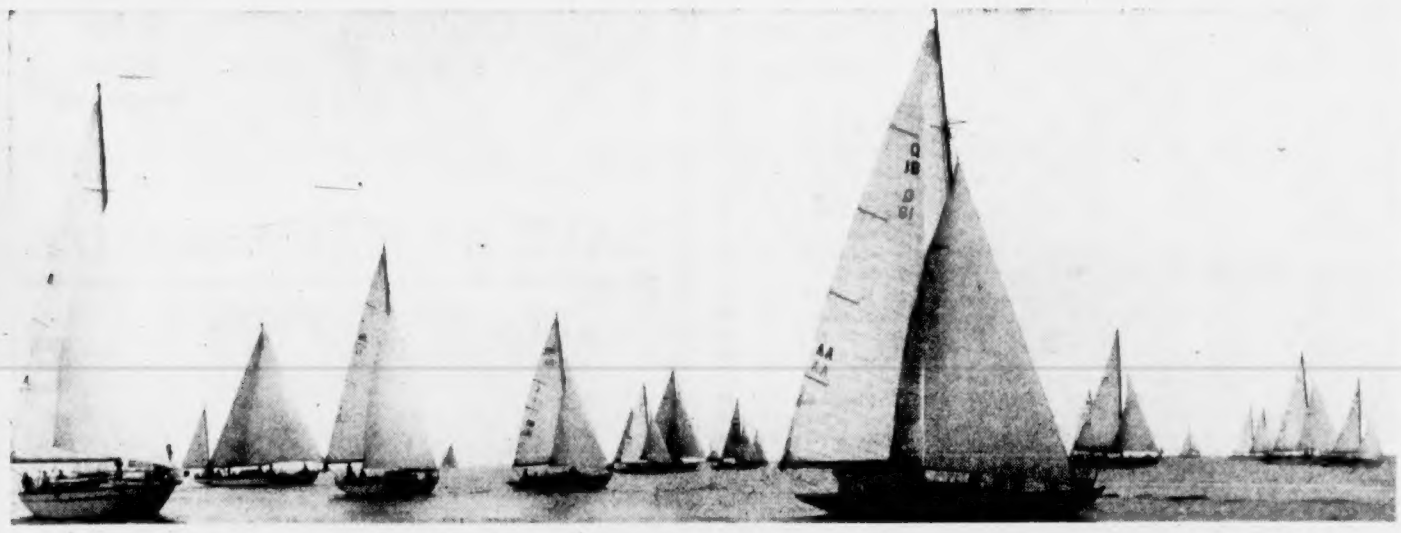
CRITICAL BLOC

The Socialists control a critical bloc of 98 seats in the assembly. De Gaulle would need them to offset the 142 Communist votes that could be expected to be cast against him.

Former premier Edouard Daladier told a meeting of his Radical Socialist party that de Gaulle would be invested as premier Sunday or Monday if all goes well.

Buzzed by Bomber

U.S. air force yesterday denied a United Air Line pilot's charge that one of its B-47 jet bombers "deliberately buzzed" his plane, which had Senate GOP leader William F. Knowland, above, and 61 others aboard. Knowland, who is seeking California governorship, said he would call for an investigation of why the jet was at same altitude as the airliner.



$1,000,000 Worth of Yachts Crawl Over Starting Line

There was no big burst of speed as more than $1,000,000 worth of sailing vessels crossed the starting point yesterday morning for the annual 136-mile Swiftsure classic. There was little wind and doubt existed as to whether race could be completed in 55 hours and 33 minutes time limit. Sixteen of the 39 craft entered in the race are pictured here in the light fog. Nearly 4,000 persons watched the race start off Brotchie Ledge.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Lightship Dawn Goal

Yacht Panacea Leads Snail-Pace Swiftsure

By DAVID FRANCIS
Colonist Staff Reporter

ABOARD THE TUG SUDBURY—Although this centennial year Swiftsure is the largest ever, it is far from the fastest.

Shortly before midnight, the Panacea from Seattle Yacht Club was leading the pack of 39 yachts, still about 35 miles from the Swiftsure lightship.

The sloop-rigged, BB-class craft, following the Canadian shore, was also ahead in corrected time with a handicap of some four hours over AA-class yachts.

But this 136-mile race still could be won by any of the 17 yachts scattered over 10 miles behind the leader.

Estimates were that the lead boats would round the lightship, anchored in 19 fathoms at Swiftsure Bank at the entrance to Juan de Fuca Strait, between 6 and 8 this morning and return to Victoria in the late afternoon or early evening.

MILE BEHIND

Within a mile of the Panacea was Nautilus IV, also of Seattle Yacht Club. Nearly parallel with it in the centre of the strait was Sea Fever of the same club.

Behind the lead boat on the Canadian side were Cotton Blossom, Seattle Yacht Club; Karen IV, Corinthian Yacht Club, Seattle; and Gometra, Royal Vancouver Yacht Club, manned by a Victoria crew. In mid-strait were Alatola, Corinthian Yacht Club; Buccaneer, West Vancouver Yacht Club; Ono, Seattle Yacht Club, and Delphin, Royal Vancouver Yacht Club.

Maruffa, Seattle Yacht Club, last year's winner, was keeping to the centre of the strait about five miles back.

Steve Fairhurst, skipper of the Sudbury, which is carrying race officials, newspaper and radio men, said the yachts should have favorable tides all the way to the finish from midnight on in.

CHANGE TO FLOOD

The 10-foot ebb tide was to change to a flood at 10 a.m. when many of the yachts should have turned around the lightship.

The race started at 11 a.m. yesterday with an unusual downwind start between the starting boat and Brotchie Ledge.

FALSE START

Maruffa made a false start. A navy harbor craft steamed up to tell skipper John Graham the speedy boat had jumped the starting gun by a boat's length. She lost at least 20 minutes turning back to start again and by 8 p.m. still hadn't made good her time.

Absence of winds early in the race had observers commenting that the weather was ideal for strait swimming but poor for sailing.

Pension Prober

It is possible to adapt certain features of the high-paying United States contributory pensions scheme to the Canadian economy, says Prof. Robert Clark, above, of UBC. He is compiling a report for the federal government on the U.S. security system. No action is likely this session, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said last night.

Russia Keeps West Guessing

(From UPI and Reuters)

LONDON—The Soviet Union, in an unusual policy move, yesterday served formal notice of its intention to stand aloof from criticism of Gen. Charles de Gaulle in France—at least for the present.

An official foreign ministry announcement in Moscow stated Russia's resolve to refrain from interference in France's internal affairs and formally denied an alleged Kremlin attack on de Gaulle.

The surprise move set off diplomatic speculation that Russia's wait-and-see strategy may have been prompted by hopes that de Gaulle's advent to power would weaken the Allied front.

Diplomatic sources recalled the Soviet strategy of the past, which made every effort to play France against the United States and Britain. They anticipated an early Soviet approach to de Gaulle, renewing the oft-heard call for a new nonaggression and friendship pact.

Russia's statement came after days of moderate Soviet reaction to the explosive situation in France.

Significantly, the Moscow foreign ministry statement yesterday sharply denied a remark attributed to Soviet President Kliment Y. Voroshilov at an embassy reception in Moscow that de Gaulle's return to power might bring "more harm than good."

Life Partnership Bid Admitted by Eversfield

VANCOUVER (CP) — The key Crown witness in the Sommers bribery conspiracy trial denied Friday he ever tried to extract $10,000 from his former employer but admitted submitting a document proposing a lifetime partnership in the firm which now is charged in the case.

Charles W. Eversfield was testifying for the seventh day in the Assize Court jury trial which involves former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers, three business executives and four companies. They face a 38-count indictment in connection with issuance of government timber licences.

Eversfield, under intense cross-examination by defence counsel J. R. Nicholson, denied he had ever tried to "pressure" H. W. Gray, president of Pacific Coast Services. Documents the 46-year-old bookkeeper took when he left the firm in 1955 now form the basis of the prosecution.

Eversfield said the partnership proposal was the idea of H. W. Gray, submitted after Gray suggested he stay on with the Pacific firm on the basis of sharing in the company.

"KEEP YOUR MOUTH SHUT"

Mr. Nicholson suggested that in return for a partnership Eversfield was going "to keep your mouth shut about Mr. Gray's loans to Mr. Sommers."

The witness also denied this, saying it was never mentioned.

Charged along with Sommers and H. W. Gray are John Gray and Charles D. Schultz, the C. D. Schultz Company Limited, Pacific Coast Services, Evergreen Lumber Sales and B.C. Forest Products. All have pleaded not guilty to two counts of conspiracy and 36 of bribery in which the Crown alleges monies were split between H. W. Gray, Schultz and Sommers with respect to issuance of licences permitting the holders to cut timber on crown land.

STILL A MEMBER

Sommers, resigned from the cabinet in 1956 but still is Social Credit member of the legislature for Rossland-Trail.

Eversfield, who now runs his own accounting business in Los Angeles, said under cross-

Laburnum Trees . . . . . At Danger Period

Death Within Children's Grasp

Emergency wards of Victoria hospitals ask parents to warn their children that laburnum-seed time is here.

This city's many laburnum trees have shed their bright yellow blooms, and are now sprouting thousands of green pods which, to young eyes, seem appetizing, resembling green peas.

But seed pods are poisonous. They can be fatal unless prompt steps are taken to counteract the poison.

Effects the seeds are quickly noticeable, and include nausea and drowsiness.

If there's even a chance that the child may have eaten one seed, or chewed the laburnum leaves, parents are urged to rush them to hospital. Don't wait for home antidotes; get the child to the emergency ward at once, to minimize the effect of the poison.

City Seaman Faces Arson

VANCOUVER (CP)—A young Victoria seaman has been charged with arson in connection with four fires set on the coast steamship Princess Elizabeth on May 16.

Warren Pasquill Sumpter, 20, was charged Friday when he appeared in police court on a previous charge of damage.

Fraser Brigade Reaches Quesnel

'Show Must Go On' Despite Leaky Tent

(This is another report from Colonist reporter Courtney Tower, who left Prince George Thursday morning as a member of the party of modern day voyageurs re-enacting the centennial year the perilous journey of Simon Fraser down the river that bears his name.)

By COURTNEY TOWER

QUESNEL—At least 2,000 persons dripped soggily but stuck out a pelting rain here last night to enjoy Fraser Brigade - welcoming artists performing under a leaky canvas.

The "show must go on" tradition showed up in both audience and actors participating in the show that welcomed our canoe brigade to this Cariboo sawmilling and ranching town o. 6,000.

We stood in soaking costumes by our canoes in the rain—the crowd was just as unprotected as the artists recounted the last 150 years in this area, scene of B.C.'s last big gold rush.

Our three-canoe Fraser Brigade had camped in the rain just outside Quesnel earlier.

Cost of Education Rises 524 Per Cent

VANCOUVER (CP)—Education is costing the people of Ontario an average of $31.95 a person annually against $11.50 just 10 years ago, Mayor R. M. Simpson of Armprior, Ont., said here yesterday.

Capital costs of education increased 524 per cent in the same period and education taxes are 32.5 per cent of the municipal tax load compared with 25 per cent in 1948, he said.

Mayor Simpson was interviewed when he stopped here on his way to Victoria for the annual convention of Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, of which he is a past president.

He said property could no longer be expected to pay for services which did not benefit it directly, such as education and social services.

Ontario, he said, had reached the position where 40 per cent of provincial revenue was going to municipalities to keep the taxation load on property from reaching the point of confiscation.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

MASSETT—Life in an unspoiled island paradise has its drawbacks.

There is not a single bank in the whole of the Queen Charlotte Islands. The credit unions and the stores do not often import cash, because that costs money. They make do with what they have.

A dollar bill never gets a holiday in a nice cool vault. It moves through the community faster than a secret at a women's club meeting.

As a result, the folding money develops a tired, grubby and travel-worn appearance. Some stores will cash cheques but give smaller cheques as part of the change.

Having money transferred here from outside is such a difficult task that people generally don't bother.

* * *

No fresh milk is produced commercially here. There used to be a small dairy here in the past, but it folded up. Rigid government standards discouraged anyone else from starting up.

Apparently no fruit or vegetables are grown for sale around Massett. When a load comes into the stores, housewives rush to buy the stuff. It's all gone in a short while.

However, the last link of an 80-mile road connecting Massett with Queen Charlotte City and Skidegate at the south end of Graham Island should be completed in July. Some of the few vegetables grown commercially in Queen Charlotte City may be brought to Massett then.

Liquor may also be brought in more readily—a prospect which many residents of Massett do not welcome. This community voted against the sale of alcoholic beverages, and its only hotel has no beer parlor or cocktail bar.

Queen Charlotte City has both a liquor store and a beer parlor. Port Clements, on the road from Massett to Charlotte, has a beer parlor.

* * *

Another drawback about life in the Queen Charlottes is that an unemployed man has to wait so long for his insurance payments. A representative of the National Employment Service was visiting the islands at the time I was there. People told me it was his first visit for two years.

As a result, some men must put up with delays of weeks and months in payment of their unemployment insurance claims. They won't starve, because there is food to be gathered in the woods and beaches. But the same situation comes up in other isolated places where Nature does not set such an abundant table.

Wouldn't it be reasonable in remote country places to charge the postmaster with some of the duties of an unemployment insurance officer? He might not be able to handle tricky technical matters, but he could handle all the routine business and speed up special queries.

* * *

Huge tubs and cisterns attached to houses betray the fact that Massett is dependent on rainwater. However, a water system drawing from wells is planned for the Indian village of Old Massett—which community, by the way, has been saddled with the postal address "Haida," to the disgust of the inhabitants.

They are proud of being Haida Indians, but resent the loss of the name—which, they say, their community had first, before upstart New Massett began.

* * *

In Massett's little Chinese restaurant, so close to the water that a plate of chop suey could be thrown into the harbor from its front door, there is no fresh seafood whatever to be had.

You might expect the menu to be cluttered with plain and fancy crab, clam, salmon and halibut, since those foods are harvested only a short distance away.

But the only seafood the restaurant serves is from a can—probably produced on the mainland, at that.

Sommers Case

examination that money had nothing to do with his return to Canada to become the Crown's star witness in the case.

Mr. Nicholson suggested that despite Eversfield's claim that he never "betrayed" his former employer, he had returned to Canada from Los Angeles with the documents he had taken from Pacific. This he had done after getting $700 from Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy, the man to whom he had first disclosed the documents.

GREATER PRINCIPLE

"I don't think that anyone would consider carrying out that further duty would be breaking a confidence," the accountant replied. "The $700 would never induce me to return to Canada—there was a greater principle involved.

"Money had nothing to do with it."

The witness has testified previously that the $700 was part of a total of $1,700 Sturdy gave him in expenses and loans, some of which was repayable.

Dealing with the partnership proposal, Eversfield identified a typewritten document as one he had given H. W. Gray. It set down conditions for a partnership on the basis of 25 per cent for C. W. Eversfield and 75 per cent for H. W. Gray with salary at $400 a month for Eversfield and $600 a month for Gray.

YOUR CONTRIBUTION

Mr. Nicholson asked Eversfield: "And what were you contributing to the partnership?"

The witness replied he was contributing his B.C. Accounting Services business which, though it was worth perhaps only $1,500, was a more tangible asset than Gray's contribution since all he was offering was a company many thousands of dollars in debt.

Nicholson asked Eversfield if prior to the partnership proposal he had not once over coffee asked Gray for $10,000.

Eversfield denied it.

Nicholson suggested he had said to Gray that he wanted $10,000, that "I'm not asking you, I'm telling you to get it," and suggesting the funds could be raised "from your friend Charlie Schultz."

Again Eversfield denied the accusation with: "That is not correct."

DOCUMENTS WORTH $10,000

Nicholson suggested Eversfield had told Gray he had documents worth $10,000 and that if Gray didn't give him the money "I know someone who will."

This, too, brought a straight denial from the witness.

"Didn't you identify them (the documents) as dealing with C. D. Schultz and the minister?"

"That is not so," Eversfield replied.

The trial, expected to last until late June, continues Monday.

'Hot' Wire Brings Death To Rescuer

AFTON, Okla (AP)—A young soldier saw a wrecked and burning car in a ditch early yesterday and heard the cries of help from three men trapped inside.

Ignoring warnings of bystanders of a possible explosion, he rushed down a 10-foot embankment and dragged two of the men to safety. He made a last trip and after he pulled the third man away from the blazing car, he accidentally touched a high-voltage line knocked down by the car.

William Howard Britt, 21, the soldier, was electrocuted by the high-line and fell dead next to the men he had saved.

His bride of less than three months, Joanne, 18, witnessed the death of her husband.

Afton town marshal Vernon Looney said that several who stopped were afraid to approach the burning car but Britt fearlessly went down the embankment to save the men.

DR. GEORGE BISSETT

Veterans' Hospital Official, Dr. George Bissett, Dies

Dr. George William Clement Bissett, assistant superintendent of the Veterans' Hospital in Victoria since 1954, died suddenly in his home on Senanus Drive, Central Saanich, yesterday at the age of 64 years.

Funeral services will be held in Hayward's Chapel at 3 p.m. Monday, Rev. Dr. Douglas Kendell officiating. Cremation at Royal Oak will follow.

A native of Sidney, Dr. Bissett was prominent in many fields. He was past president and an honorary life member of the B.C. Medical Association, past commodore of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club, member of the Union Club, and in the St. John Ambulance organization was a knight of the Venerable Order of St. John of Jerusalem.

During the First World War, he served in Europe with the No. 3 (McGill) Canadian General Hospital, Army Medical Corps, being mentioned in dispatches. After returning to McGill to graduate in 1917, he was lent to the British army medical corps, serving in France and India.

Dr. Bissett had practices in Nanaimo from 1920 to 1926, Trail until 1929 and Duncan until 1941. In the latter centre, he organized a community hospitalization scheme, one of the first of its kind in Canada.

During the Second World War, he served with No. 16 Canadian General Hospital, Army Medical Corps, in England and as a lieutenant-colonel in continental Europe. He returned to a Victoria practice, and when the Veterans' hospital opened in 1947, became a part-time surgeon-consultant, taking the post of assistant superintendent in 1954.

Survivors are his widow, Alice, at home; one son, Richard, Victoria; one daughter, Mrs. W. E. Clayards, Saanichton; five grandchildren, and two sisters, Mrs. Arthur Buckle of Victoria and Mrs. Donald Shaw of San Francisco.

Minister Offers Self, Family As Atom Target

TORONTO—A United Church of Canada minister has offered to have himself, his wife and their children blown up by an atom bomb.

Rev. Gordon Weir, 54, of the United Church at Alton, Ont., made the offer to the annual meeting of the church's Toronto Conference as it decided against a proposal for a ban-the-H-bomb parade. The conference held an all-night prayer vigil and later some ministers said they will march on the Ontario legislature despite the official decision.

"All down through history it has been those . . . protesting with their lives who have converted the world to their thoughts," Mr. Weir said.

"We Christians should go where the bombs are falling and summon enough people to stand under them. I will be glad to go and take myself and my family."

Operating at Half Capacity

No Rush on Remaining Ferries

Business Poor Despite Strike Companies Say

Despite the strike against the CPR's B.C. Coast steamship service, the existing two ferry services between Vancouver Island and the mainland are reported to be operating at half capacity.

Spokesman for the Black Ball Ferry service and the Washington State Ferries said yesterday business is "bad."

"We don't seem to be getting any of the CPR's normal traffic and our own is far less than normal for this time of year," said Berger Tollefsen, Black Ball superintendent.

Both companies said fear of being stranded on Vancouver Island may have caused thousands to cancel planned trips.

SIU men on Black Ball Ferries have also voted overwhelmingly to strike for increased wages, but union officials said they would not put the strike vote into effect at once.

Arnold Webb, managing secretary of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, estimated that the island's tourist industry has dropped by 75 per cent since the strike started May 16.

Trooping of the Color

A GOOD deal of Canadian active service history in two world conflicts will be commemorated this afternoon at the ceremonial Trooping of the Color by the First Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry at Work Point barracks. The salute will be taken by Brig. Hamilton Gault, who founded the famous permanent force regiment. The Color was made by H.R.H. Princess Patricia of Connaught and presented to the regiment just before it sailed overseas in 1914 to become the first Canadian infantry unit in action on the western front in the First World War.

While the one-and-a-half-hour ceremony will follow the traditional lines of a spectacular military parade, with Color Guard and a muster turnout of all ranks, it will be taking place at the barracks occupied for many years by considerable detachments of the regiment which in two wars made an outstanding name for itself. Both for their frequent sojourns here and the pride with which their achievements overseas were followed in 1914 and again in 1939, the PPCLI have won an especial niche in the heart of this community. Brig. Gault a week later will take the salute at a companion ceremony by the 2nd Battalion of the Regiment to be held at Edmonton. So for the PPCLI the occasion will be unique.

The battle honors of the PPCLI, emblazoned on the Color, read like a complete history of Canada's military action overseas between 1914 and 1946. They extend from the Second Battle of Ypres —where the regiment as part of an Imperial division saw bitter fighting in the gas attacks on the salient, lost most of its commissioned officers but did not yield an inch—to the long succession of fierce engagements in the liberation of western Europe in the second world conflict. The Color was carried into battle through the period 1914-1918, as had been the practice with regimental standards ever since the 17th Century; and the Color Guard which will be seen this afternoon derives from that tradition.

Not the least important part of today's ceremonial will be the honor to be paid to Brig. Hamilton Gault, who founded the famous permanent force unit, sponsored it at the outbreak of war in 1914, and followed the fortunes of the thousands of men who have served in its ranks from that day to this, with self-effacing devotion and a well-earned pride. It will be the same at Edmonton next week when the 2nd Battalion turns out, making this a red-letter year for the PPCLI.

Wednesday Opening

WEDNESDAY next week will afford the first practical test of a six-day shopping week in Victoria for some time past. Proprietors of retail establishments will have the choice of keeping their premises open for business during the former half-holiday period, or of closing as before. Some stores, it is believed, will stay open while others will not. Permissive restoration of a six-day shopping week during the period from June to mid-September has been debated for months past, but now the reaction of business sentiment on the issue will be learned at first hand.

The change will not affect the 9 p.m. closing on Fridays in the retail field, to which the public has become accustomed. What it may do is to cover some of the gap found by visitors when they arrive in the city at mid-week, especially with retail outlets in the tourist trade. Even that, however, will depend on the degree to which the permissive regulation is followed.

In an issue so keenly contested it is as well that the six-day opening privilege has been left to voluntary subscription. In this fashion each merchant can please himself, while the net result will be some indication for the future of summertime variation of trading hours in this area.

While the Wednesday opening or half-day closing is usually argued in terms of its effect on the tourists, there is probably a good deal more to it than that. The general public by ready adoption of the practice of Friday evening shopping has influenced many lines of trading. That could happen with regard to mid-week buying in a wider range than visitors may be interested in. In any event Wednesday next will be a test, if not a turning point, in the much debated issue.

Some Rain Has Helped

LIFTING of the partial forest fire closure in Island woods, due to a slight amelioration of their over-dry condition through light rains, should improve employment in timber operations. At the same time, the suspension of the ban does not mean that the Island, or indeed several other areas in the province, are through with the need for watchfulness at one of the peaks of the current fire season.

While fire permits and other easements for the public apply again, there will still be need of due precaution in the woods. Removal of the provincial closure, however, means that commercial operations can resume while these conditions last.

Up to the present fire damage in the woods this year has been relatively light. Prince George, Kamloops, and the Vancouver forest district which includes Vancouver Island, have had a normal accession of spot fires. Lightning was responsible for one Island outbreak, while the causes of others have been various. Only three of the fires assumed any size, while these have been brought under control. That would be a good way to keep it, if the public will do its best to co-operate. The next few weeks may see a repetition of hot, dry periods which could reconstitute hazard in the woods; while a good soaking rain would ease this condition materially.

An Eleventh Province

THE Canadian Press corrected yesterday its earlier report on what Senator Walter M. Aseltine had said in connection with the Northwest Territories and the Yukon. Rather than wanting the northland split up and parcelled out among four western Provinces, the government leader in the Senate had spoken of the desire of the people of the north for the creation of an eleventh province "just as soon as they have enough population and get organized." That is in consonance with Prime Minister Diefenbaker's statements in reference to the north and the Dominion's intention of assisting in its development. As we questioned the report, we are glad to learn subdivision of the Canadian north is not contemplated.

French Assembly Divided

PARIS (AP) — Why did Premier Pierre Pflimlin resign from office Wednesday after getting one of his biggest votes in the National Assembly? It was because he had won a battle but thought he had lost the war.

The 51-year-old Alsatian lawyer who served in 15 French cabinets and became premier May 13 won a parliamentary victory on a clear-cut choice of Pflimlin or de Gaulle.

* * *

Technically the vote was on basic reorganization of the government to give it more stability in crisis.

With Communist and Socialist support the vote was 408 to 165.

Pflimlin did not want the Communists' backing. Knocking out their 148 votes, he still could count on a majority of 90 to 95 votes.

But among the 165 who voted against him were 76 deputies of the pro-de Gaullist Independent-Peasant groups. Only seven voted for him. At best he has been able to count on about 45 votes in that group.

* * *

Three members of the Independent-Peasant party in his cabinet carried out their threats to resign. Pflimlin had been stalling on accepting their resignations.

The 260 non-Communist votes Pflimlin mustered are short of the 296 required for a majority of the total membership necessary to adopt constitutional reforms.

Pflimlin, after meeting with President Rene Coty early Wednesday, put it this way:

* * *

"The government obtained a majority of votes after deduction of Communist votes. But an important group deserted the government.

"Three ministers belonging to this group have quit the government. Thus the government finds itself weakened at a moment when it must face tasks which are more and more heavy. In consequence, I presented my resignation to the president of the republic who replied he could accept it only when it appeared possible to form a new government.

"As it does not seem possible in the present circumstances to create a gap in power, I have decided for the time being to retain full governmental responsibilities."

* * *

This allows Pflimlin to go ahead with policy decisions and actions that the usual caretaker cabinet between premiers could not make.

On the Record

Elmer Davis

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

THE recent passing of Elmer Davis is a reminder that a generation of journalists is ending and with it a long epoch of vigor and non-conformity in American life.

One mourns Mr. Davis not only as an individual but, for his times, as a representative man. American journalists were, in the 'twenties and 'thirties, notable for their rugged independence of mind their outspoken expression, their defiance of restrictive regulations imposed by government agencies, their imperviousness to propaganda, and sometimes the breadth, even profundity, of their educational backgrounds.

They were of all types. Floyd Gibbons—wearing like a white carnation the immaculate patch that covered the hole left by a lost eye, shot out in the First World War as the result of too much curiosity—was no intellectual but a reporter for whom no risk was too great for a story. The engaging Mick from Chicago was also a great dandy and I once nearly lost my life because he went to a revolution with a wardrobe trunk. The trunk (but not Floyd) took my seat in a station wagon that was blown up on a mined road.

Many of these journalists were once household names. Walter Duranty, the Mowrer Brothers (both happily alive); Vincent Sheean, exquisitely cultivated and now writing of music, his "first and last love"; Raymond Gram Swing, William Bolitho, H. R. Knickerbocker. Among the younger, Bill Shirer, and John Gunther who established himself by his monumental books of continental reportage, and at home, Frank Kent, H. R. Mencken, practically the whole staff of the New York World, and many others.

* * *

The only instructions I ever received as a foreign correspondent were, "get the news, if possible get it first; remember the laws of libel, and don't mix opinion and interpretation into news reports."

To these pretty typical instructions we added some of our own: take everything told you officially with a large grain of salt and regard all public relation counsellors as mortal enemies. We formed and reported our opinions, as opinions, on the basis of the facts as we knew them.

When we got ourselves in trouble, as we not infrequently did by defying regulations governing our movements, we usually got ourselves out. But none of us was ever arrested as a spy even by totalitarian governments. They knew we weren't. We were sometimes expelled by such governments, but not on that ground. Nowadays with the counter intelligence service being what it is, nobody can be sure.

Most of us had strong opinions on matters where we thought we knew the score. In general we were all liberals, in a time when the word had some meaning. We believed in free speech, but we thought it useless unless one had something to say. What we said we said unequivocally. We stuck our necks out. We believed in debate, not those namby-pamby discussions in which everyone concedes to everyone else and it all ends in half-hearted agreement.

We had a wonderful, risky, unforgettable time. In our lifetimes it will not come again. This is the age of "adjustment" and "togetherness"—and to hell with it!

Reports from Ottawa

FOR the last two elections Prime Minister Diefenbaker has talked about the danger of American economic domination of Canada.

Now one of the Tory "new boys" has decided—all by himself, he says—that it's time to stop talking and start doing. Ernest J. Broome, elected to the Commons last year for Vancouver South, has proposed a law which would require companies incorporated under federal charter to have a majority of Canadians on their boards of directors.

* * *

You can drive a couple of trucks through holes in the proposed law—we'll get to that in a minute—but in the meantime it is noteworthy that for the first time Parliament is faced with a plan for concrete action on this issue. If the House gets around to debating Broome's bill — which isn't at all certain, seeing there are 11 other private member's bills ahead of it — what position will the government take?

Broome denies that he's flying a kite for the government. It's all his idea, he says, and he kept it a close secret lest the CCF steal it. So it seems that this yearling MP took it upon himself to try to force action which the government has been singularly reluctant to take. Government back benchers are rarely so impetuous.

* * *

The government seems to have hoped that strong words would persuade the owners of U.S. dollars invested in Canada to take voluntary steps along the lines indicated.

The indicated lines include appointment of Canadians to the boards of directors of subsidiary companies of U.S. firms, the sale of some stock in such companies to Canadians, the appointment of Canadians to top managerial posts, and freedom for subsidairies to export to any markets in which they can sell.

During the last campaign Diefenbaker was reported to have said the government would "require" foreign-owned companies to take steps to Canadianize themselves. Maybe he was carried away. Maybe it was a slip of the tongue. Or maybe he was misquoted. Anyway, there has been no move by the administration to compel American investors to do anything.

* * *

Broome tells us that he has been "boiling" for five years over American-controlled subsidiaries hiring Americans when Canadians were available, and being prevented by their parent companies from exporting goods which might compete with the parent companies' products.

His solution is to require that the subsidiaries have boards of directors dominated—at least numerically—by Canadians. This would apply both to new companies and existing ones—meaning the latter would have to reorganize their boards to give them Canadian majorities. The effect, Broome says, would be to establish a policy-making level of Canadians between plant managers and foreign owners, and (he hopes) give the companies a more Canadian outlook.

* * *

About the holes: he knows they're there. One: most companies are incorporated under provincial laws, and wouldn't be affected. Two: the bill couldn't prevent the appointment of dummy Canadian directors who would vote as they were told.

But Broome has faith in human nature (var. canadiensis). Even dummies wouldn't be rubber stamps, he says—not Canadian ones. They'd be bound to get across some of the Canadian viewpoint. They'd have "a little bit of good effect."

Teen-Age Discipline

By GREGORY CLARK

AN OLD college chum of mine has recently been disgraced by his teenage grandchildren who have actually been pinched by the police on several occasions and on entirely disreputable charges. He is heartbroken and can't figure out what has happened to the strain in his family that made a good student out of him and all his brothers, and model citizens out of all his kith and kin save the new generation.

I reminded him of the days both he and I had been locked up by the police for disorderly student parades and riots on Halloweens and football triumphs of half a century ago.

* * *

He was thoughtful for a while, and then exclaimed:

"And do you remember how they defeated us? Do you recall what a bunch of hoodlums we were at 'varsity until they invented what they called the student parliament and the student council?"

"Say!" I remembered.

"In one year," he cried, "they brought absolute discipline into the student body. And all by the simple expedient of making the student body responsible for its own behavior. Instead of being up before our elders, we were up before a bunch of our fellow students, duly elected, who fined us and meted out other punishment. It was humiliating. There was no glamor in it any more.

* * *

"Why hasn't somebody thought of this before?" he exulted. "Why not make teenagers responsible for themselves, our juvenile courts presided over by juveniles? That would fix them."

It certainly fixed us college boys, back in the early nineteen hundreds.

The Rapacki Plan

No Use to NATO Bloc

By W. N. EWER, from London

VERY courteously, but quite decisively, the British government has informed the Polish government that it finds the "Rapacki plan" for the establishment of a nuclear-weapon-free zone in central Europe unacceptable, since it "raises wider issues" to which it "appears to offer no solution."

It has been known for some time that this was, in fact, the view of the British government after a very careful study of the plan. But the reply to the Polish note of February 14 was deferred until the subject had been discussed by the foreign ministers of the NATO countries at their meeting in Copenhagen.

That meeting showed that the ministers were unanimous in regarding the Polish proposal as unacceptable. The general feeling was summed up by M. Bech of Luxembourg. "The main effect," he said, "would be to destroy the protective shield of the NATO European area, and to offer in return only an illusory appearance of security."

* * *

It needs to be made clear, since there is much current misrepresentation and misunderstanding, that the British rejection applies strictly to the Rapacki plan. It expresses no view on other proposals for measures of "disengagement" in Europe, or on the idea of disengagement.

The Rapacki plan—so-called because it was first suggested by Mr. Adam Rapacki, the Polish foreign minister, in the United Nations' Assembly last autumn—is a limited one. It proposes that America, Britain, France and Russia should undertake not to maintain nuclear weapons in a zone composed of Poland, Czechoslovakia, West Germany and East Germany. The ban would also apply to "installations or equipment for servicing nuclear weapons, including missile-launching equipment."

It is true that the Polish note of February, in which the "plan" became a definite and formal proposal, contained an expression of hope that acceptance of it would facilitate later agreement on "an adequate reduction of conventional armaments and of foreign armed forces" in the zone. But the powers concerned have had to consider the plan as it is, not hypothetical consequences which might or might not follow it.

* * *

The effect of the plan would be this. It would deprive the NATO defence forces in western Germany—that is to say all the front line defences—of the modern weapons on which their defensive power is now based; in particular of those tactical nuclear weapons which provide a defensive firepower hitherto unknown.

It is of course true that the Soviet forces would (assuming an effective system of control and inspection) be also debarred from having nuclear weapons in Poland or Czechoslovakia.

But that is precisely the point. The elimination of nuclear weapons from both sides would, as the British note says, leave the Russians with "preponderant strength of conventional forces." That is an understatement. It is well known that, in fact, the superiority of the Soviet forces in Europe, in numbers and in "conventional" arms is overwhelming.

A smaller force, equipped with nuclear weapons, should be able to repel attack by a numerically much stronger one. Without such weapons its chances of doing so would be comparatively small. The tactical nuclear weapon is primarily a defensive arm. Its elimination would tilt the balance heavily in favor of an attacker with numerical superiority.

* * *

These are the hard military facts of the matter. The adoption of the "Rapacki plan" without what the British note calls "measures to reduce the Soviet preponderance in conventional weapons in the whole of central and eastern Europe" would change the whole balance of military power sharply in favor of the Soviet camp. It would do so to such an extent that it would, in M. Bech's words, "destroy the protective shield." It would force the West to rely, almost entirely, for its security on the "awful deterrent" of the long-range hydrogen bomb.

So it becomes plain that the British government and its allies have had no thinkable alternative. The Polish proposals, as themselves and in themselves, have had to be rejected. They "raise wider issues to which they appear to offer no solution."

But that, let me repeat, does not mean that the concept of de-nuclearized zones, or de-militarized zones, or of "disengagement," is excluded from all discussion. It means that any such proposals must either form part of a wider and more comprehensive solution of the problems of disarmament and security; or, alternatively, that, as in this case, any plan put forward as a separate proposal, not as part of what is often called a "package," must be considered on its own merits. And, in the present situation, the primary consideration must necessarily be the effect of any such plan on the defensive potential of the Western alliance. It is by that test that the "Rapacki plan" has been weighed in the balance and found wanting.

Open Letter to Labor

A strong disavowal of labor's comment that the Chamber of Commerce are not interested in the working man, has been made by the directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce in an open letter to Robert Barrie, president of the Victoria Labor Council, released today.

Chamber directors said the letter was sent in the hope that it would lead to better understanding between the chamber and union men.

The full text of the chamber letter delivered last night to the Victoria Labor Council follows.

May 30th, 1958

It has come to the attention of the board of directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce that in recent times reports of chamber policy are frequently coupled with attacks from certain spokesmen for organized labor. This is unfortunate, and is probably the result of lack of information and understanding, which if allowed to persist, can only result in further mis-information and misunderstanding.

We believe that the future welfare of our economy throughout British Columbia and Canada generally, dies in the promotion of mutual respect and understanding between employer and employee groups. There is far too much evidence that this is lacking today.

A recent issue of the Daily Colonist carried a report of efforts made at a special meeting called by the Victoria Chamber to find some means of bringing about resumption of the CPR ferry service to Vancouver Island.

Judicial arbitration of the dispute was advocated, first as a means of getting the service resumed, and secondly as a process providing a fair and impartial solution to the differences between the disputing parties.

As Expected

You are quoted in the same issue as saying that "That is just what we can expect from the Chamber of Commerce. These people are only looking after themselves. They are not looking after the working man."

This, and other statements to the effect that the Chamber of Commerce represents primarily the interests of big business, and has an underlying motive of greed and profit, are most unfair.

Certainly business has to have a profit, and lacking the profit it will soon cease operations. But it would seem that many union leaders are not willing to accept the fact that business has recently found it extremely difficult, and at times completely impossible, to realize any profit.

Profits Limited

In the best of times profits are limited by the element of competition, and the availability of markets sensitive to prices which may become too high.

It is probably a fact that business generally has been encountering equally as much difficulty in its effort to make a profit as the difficulty presently being experienced by certain unions in their efforts to win substantial wage increases. Surely it should not follow that business is anti-labor or labor should be anti-business.

Certain unions today are seeking increases beyond those sought in any previous period in history, at a time when business is having difficulty to maintain the status quo.

Hard to Understand

In Vancouver the construction industry is being slowly strangled with one or two jobs closing down every day because of difficulties arising out of labor disputes. The economy of Vancouver Island is being penalized beyond all measure by the few seamen who have struck the CPR coast steamships.

Businessmen find it difficult to understand the reason or justification for situations of this kind. As a result there has been a great deal of thought given to the question of whether industrial disputes should continue to be settled by strikes or lockouts.

It would seem that the damage to the economy generally can far outweigh any benefits derived by those who wish to strike or lockout.

Strikes Opposed

We believe that the great majority of Canadians today are opposed to the use of the strike weapon for the settlement of disputes in essential services where a work stoppage is contrary to the public interest.

In the case of public transportation systems and public utilities there can be no doubt that the interest of the public is paramount and should be preferred over the minority interests of either of the disputing parties. In such cases a settlement of differences by arbitration is now a necessary and a practical method.

The principle has already been accepted with respect to fire fighting and police forces. Why not broaden its application?

Abusive Comment

The chamber policy of supporting the principle of the right to work is another matter which requires a greater measure of understanding. On every occasion when there is a press report on this subject it is followed up by some abusive comment from union representatives. The comment is usually in the vain that Chamber of Commerce is anti-labor, and those who advocate the right to work are mainly concerned in an effort to smash the trade union movement.

The truth is, of course, that the Chamber of Commerce recognizes the trade union movement as a major force in our present economy, and one which is capable of making a useful contribution to the economic functioning of our society.

The Chamber of Commerce believes that unions should be allowed to organize, collect dues, and carry on the business of serving their members in accordance with the original intent and concept of unionism.

Should Contribute

This chamber further believes that it is reasonable for unions to request that in any group for which a union has been certified as the appropriate bargaining agent all members of that group should be asked to contribute towards the union's funds. This principle is fully protected in the Rand type formula.

However, its this chamber's opinion that the extension of this principle to compulsory membership in a union, regardless of the employee's wishes, places in the hands of unions a power over individuals which we believe no unit in a free society should be allowed to possess. There can be little doubt for instance, that it is this absolute power in the hands of wrong-minded individuals that has resulted in the present sorry abuses of such power in the United States.

Damage Done

You and all informed members will, I think, agree that these abuses have done the union movement incalculable damage in the eyes of the public. Removal of this power to terminate employment because of non-membership would go a long way toward permitting greater freedom of speech and a fuller participation by the individual member in the affairs of his union.

The chamber policy as briefly outlined herein is definitely not anti-labor, and we hope that you and other responsible union leaders will be willing to reach a better basis of understanding with the Chamber of Commerce movement.

We would be willing, at any time, to arrange for you or other representatives to meet with us in informal or panel discussions on those topics where there would appear to be some misunderstanding or outright disagreement.

Legion Motion

Don't Forget Union Jack In New Flag

EDMONTON (CP) — The Canadian Legion Dominion convention ended Friday with a motion asking that any new Canadian flag include the Union Jack in its design. The federal government was asked to settle the matter.

The closing business session also asked that the Criminal Code be amended to allow bona fide welfare organizations to operate lotteries and games of chance.

Another motion asked that Polish-Canadian war veterans be given the same pension benefits as Canadian veterans.

A series of resolutions protecting veterans' preference in civil service employment also were passed.

Later the ceremony of installing new officers was colored by the swirl of bagpipes. President David L. Burgess, returned for a second term, told the delegates their voice would be heard with "respect and authority on Parliament Hill."

He said the target of a 250,000 Legion membership by the end of the year is reasonable and added:

"Let's hit it."

Club Speaker

Head of United Kingdom Information office in Vancouver, David Brower will discuss "The Changing Commonwealth" at Empress Hotel meeting of Canadian Club at 12.15 next Friday. Mr. Brower saw war service in India and Burma before joining U.K. Information Service, then acted in Pakistan and South Africa before coming to Canada.

Whirlwind Solarium Drive Needs More Door-Knockers

Another 300 volunteer canvassers are needed in addition to the 500 persons who already have offered to take part in the 1958 one-night fund drive of the Queen Alexandra Solarium Junior League from 6 to 7 p.m. Monday.

Convenor Mrs. Doreen Eade said yesterday canvassers are required in "all parts of Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt, and the situation is such that we may need two evenings to finish up in some areas."

Volunteers should telephone league officials at 4-9301, 5-9775 or 5-9776 as soon as possible.

THE CORPORATION OF THE DISTRICT OF SAANICH

Valuable and Desirable Commercial Property for Sale

The Corporation of the District of Saanich invites tenders for the purchase of the property known as the Municipal Yard at 3681 Douglas Street. This property, comprising approximately five acres, is strategically situated at the junction of the Patricia Bay Highway and the Trans-Canada (Island) Highway and is presently zoned and is ideally suited for the purpose of a suburban shopping centre at the gateway to Saanich and the City of Victoria. Proposals for other use will be given consideration.

The potential retail trading area embraces a population of between 110,000 and 120,000.

Further information regarding the property and terms of tender may be obtained from the office of the Municipal Clerk, Royal Oak Post Office, B.C.

Tenders to be received by the Municipal Clerk by 5.00 p.m. Monday, June 16, 1958.

The highest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

ROBERT STRACHAN

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia CCF party Friday called on the provincial government to prepare a plan for taking over the electric and gas systems of the B.C. Power Corporation.

A resolution to this effect was passed on the opening day of the party's annual convention here. The resolution consolidated three resolutions that had been submitted for consideration, two by the Oak Bay Constituency Association and one by the Delta Constituency Association.

One of the Oak Bay resolutions cited what it termed the "exorbitant" prices paid by B.C. for privately produced power compared with public power available in Ontario, Quebec and Manitoba. The other called for public ownership of electric companies.

the expropriation of the power corporation, parent of the giant B.C. Electric Co., and its gas distribution system. The firm retails Peace River natural gas in Vancouver and the lower mainland.

The resolution, as passed unanimously on the opening day of the annual convention, asserts that B.C. industry, farms and homes are being penalized through unnecessarily high costs of power and gas. Removal of these penalties could be achieved only by public ownership, with services at cost.

PREPARE A PLAN

"Therefore we urge the present government to immediately prepare a plan for taking over the B.C. Power Corporation electric and gas systems."

Passage of the resolution followed a brief debate on whether the CCF should make clear how it would execute a policy of expropriation should the party be elected to office in B.C. The next provincial election is expected in 1960.

Outgoing president Alex B. Macdonald said he did not agree that the convention should spell out the expropriation techniques. He would not be surprised if the takeover required four years. It would be a matter for the "financial, legal and technical experts who will be serving the CCF government of B.C."

ACT VERY CLEAR

Provincial leader Robert Strachan said the Power Act of 1945 makes it "very clear" how such a change can be legally carried out. The province's former Liberal government had used the act for taking over a number of small companies but it had not the "fortitude" to apply it to the B.C. Electric.

Strachan suggested that B.C. Electric is actively involved in the proposed Wenner-Gren power development in northern British Columbia.

"While this has been sold to the public as a separate venture, there can now be little doubt that the B.C. Electric Company is an interested party," Mr. Strachan told the opening session of his party's annual convention here.

He cited testimony by Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canadian chairman of the International Joint Commission, before a Commons committee in Ottawa.

RETAIL AGENCY

Gen. McNaughton had said that the British Thompson-Huston firm, surveying the Peace River trench for Swedish industrialist Axel Wenner-Gren, told him that B.C. Electric would be the retail agency if power from the Peace came to the lower mainland.

It was "not surprising," Mr. Strachan continued, to read press reports that a high B.C. Electric official was accompanying a Wenner-Gren agent on a trip to England to discuss with engineers the Wenner-Gren power developments.

The CCF leader did not identify the official.

Mr. Strachan devoted much of his report as provincial leader to the B.C. Electric, one of Canada's largest corporations, and the B.C. Telephone Company—companies which he said should be taken over by the government.

MYSTERIOUS WAY

B.C. governments in the past had always "in some mysterious way" adopted power policies which suited the purpose of the B.C. Electric.

It had often been said and never denied that the B.C. Electric made large donations to campaign funds of Social Credit, the party now in power.

Get Busy, Islanders Told

Barrage of Letters Urged for CPR, SIU

The public of Vancouver Island was urged yesterday by Mayor Scurrah of Victoria to bombard the offices of the Seamen's International Union and the Canadian Pacific Railway in Vancouver with telegrams and letters urging an immediate settlement of the Canadian Pacific ferry strike.

Mayor Scurrah told directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce that the matter was so serious to the economy of Vancouver Island that it was in the interests of all to keep up the pressure on the warring parties.

The strike took up most of the time of the chamber directors at their meeting yesterday.

Same Lane, chairman of the chamber's tourist trade group, said that inquiries made at the Washington State Ferries and Black Ball Line elicited the information that the two lines were able to cope with all current traffic to and from Vancouver Island.

Assurance was given by Washington State Ferries that they would put on an increased service on June 13 on the Anacortes-Sidney route, and that the Victoria-Port Angeles service was also scheduled to start the same day.

The Anacortes service would be increased from two to three round trips a day with more trips being made if required. The Port Angeles schedule is for four round trips with the possibility of a fifth.

The effect of the strike, however, was said by R. A. H. Lort, chairman of the retail merchants' group, to be playing havoc with Victoria merchants.

"This is the Memorial Day holiday in the U.S. and it is normally the biggest day in May for tourist traffic," said Mr. Lort. "Today the few U.S. visitors to Victoria are mainly those taking part in the Swiftsure race."

Eric Mallett, chairman of the public affairs group, said that a meeting of his group would be held June 12 and Labor Minister Lyle Wicks was being invited to talk on work stoppages and their effect on industry as a whole.

Settle Strike, Stop Losses Mayor Urges

Mayor Percy Scurrah urged both sides in the Canadian Pacific ferry strike yesterday to get to work settling the dispute and stop losing money for themselves and others.

Compromise and settlement were bound to come, the mayor said, and "they might just as well sit down now and arrive at that decision, and save loss of revenue to the company and loss of wages by the men, as well as the tremendous loss to industry and the general economy of the whole of Vancouver Island."

He did hope, he said, that "both parties will approach the situation in a spirit of compromise and stay on the job until a solution is arrived at."

School Issue

'Bennett Deceitful' —CCFer

VANCOUVER (CP)—A delegate to the provincial CCF convention Friday accused Premier Bennett of deceit in his policy toward school affairs.

The accusation was made by George Hobbs, a member of the Revelstoke district school board, during discussion of education resolutions.

Mr. Hobbs said that instead of submitting its $7,000 share of capital expenditure costs directly by cheque, as usual, the government this year issued bonds for that amount in the name of the Revelstoke board.

PROCEDURE LEGAL

Under the new Schools Act, Mr. Hobbs said, the procedure was legal. Yet he took exception to the fact that the bonds were issued in the name of the board, since they were to meet a government obligation.

The government's handling was a "bedlam of confusion and deceit . . . deceit emanating from the premier of this province."

Mr. Hobbs was speaking on a series of four resolutions concerning education finance, including a 15-point resolution submitted by the North Vancouver constituency association, and a substitute consolidating resolution from the co-ordinating committee.

Following a long procedural wrangle the convention voted to refer the entire matter back to the committee for framing of separate resolutions on finance and curriculum.

The referral motion was preceded by a successful amendment proposed by Mrs. Grace MacInnis, first vice-president, under which Ottawa was asked to increase its financial aid to education.

Centenary Results To Last

NANAIMO (CP)—Permanent results can be expected from B.C.'s centennial celebrations, says Willard Ireland, provincial archivist and member of the B.C. Centennial Committee.

That was the reason grants in aid to local centennial committees were instituted, he said in an address Thursday night.

It will cost the government about $1,500,000 for grants of this type on the $1 per capita basis which had to be matched by a similar amount raised by the community concerned. This resulted in the creation of many permanent additions to the assets of the communities concerned.

GAMBLE PAID OFF

"Our gamble on the co-operation of local centennial committees paid off. Sixty cents of each dollar of grant had to be matched by a permanent project. The results are interesting. The 60-cent carrot has resulted in local communities raising sums ranging from $2.40 to $2.80 to complete projects such as centennial parks, health centres, libraries, museums, homes for senior citizens and in addition a number of off-beat projects which puzzled the committee until they examined them more closely and found that there was a good reason in almost every case."

IWA Plans Strike Action

NANAIMO (CP) — Union officers of the International Woodworkers of America are preparing for possible strike action should a new agreement between the union and management not be reached by June 15 —the date the current agreement expires.

George Smythe, president of IWA Local 180, announced Friday he has called executive board members from all mills and logging camps within the local's jurisdiction for a meeting at Duncan to discuss strike action.

Ed Linder, secretary of the local, said this does not mean there will be a strike, "but it does mean we will be ready if one is called."

Men Who Wielded Bat . . . . . . Get Three Years

Constable Clubbers Jailed

DUNCAN—Four men were sentenced to jail terms ranging from one day to three years, by Magistrate W. H. Bryant at Chemainus, for their part in an attack on police officers with baseball bats.

Roger Lampitt, 23, of Nanaimo, and Richard Harrington Douglas, 20, of Chemainus, [illegible] years in New Westminster penitentiary. They were found guilty of using the bats while attacking constables William Bloxham and William Adams.

Robert Charles Brooks, 18, of Chemainus, who did not use a bat, was sentenced to one year definite and one year less one day indefinite, in the young offenders unit of Oakalla jail.

ONE DAY IN JAIL

Fourth man sentenced was John Clayton Rumley, of Chemainus, who was found guilty of harboring Lampitt and another wanted man, Donald Sherwood, in his home, while the police were searching for them. He was sentenced to one day in jail and fined $200, payable forthwith.

Donald Sherwood, whom Const. Bloxham was arresting for obstructing him when the fight broke out, had previously been sentenced to nine months definite and nine months indefinite, but this sentence was appealed by the crown and was raised by the appeal court to two years in jail.

Const. Bloxham suffered severe head and back injuries, and Const. Adams told the court he had been struck so violently on the hip with a baseball bat that his revolver had been bent, and bullets in his gun and pouch had been dented.

Magistrate Bryant reminded Lampitt and Douglas of his previous acquaintance with them. Speaking directly to Lampitt, he said: "We have had some meetings in earlier years, and the record has gone on. There is no doubt you wielded a bat. I have to give an adequate sentence in this case." To Douglas, the magistrate said: "We have had a longer acquaintance. Some years ago, I was on the point of giving you a prison sentence when you pleaded that you were leaving for California. But you couldn't stay away, and since your return you have been a general nuisance."

The magistrate told Brooks that he did not recall very much trouble with him, and that his trouble was due to his association with others. The other two have previously had chances when they were in trouble and I think you should have a chance too." Brooks got just one year definite and one year less one day indefinite.

Half Minute Only Warning

HONOLULU (UPI) — The skipper of the sunken submarine Stickelback said yesterday that the automatic response almost certain death Thursday despite the fact they had only 30 seconds warning they were about to be rammed by a destroyer escort.

Lt. Cmdr. Quinley R. Shulz, Racine, Wis., said his 74 men and eight officers responded with machinelike precision to a general quarters call and were able to keep the submarine torpedo room from flooding after the sub was slashed open by the destroyer escort Silverstein.

The crew managed to surface and keep the vessel afloat another five and a half hours before she turned over and sank in 9,000 feet of water.

A navy board of inquiry has been ordered convened Monday in an effort to determine the cause.

Shulz said the Stickelback had just made a simulated attempt stein from periscope depth 19 miles off Oahu when it ran into the path of the destroyer escort.

Canadian Wheat Sale Blocked

Afraid to Sell to Reds Because of U.S. Policy

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Tribune says international grain trading firms who act as agents for the Canadian Wheat Board are afraid to sell Canadian wheat to Red China because of United States policy against sales to that country.

The paper says it learned from informed sources that one firm cancelled a sale of wheat and another transferred a deal to a small company so as not to appear in a deal with China.

LACKED APPROVAL

Grain trade sources are quoted as saying the firms, both with headquarters in New York, took this action because the U.S. government would not approve the sales.

The newspaper said the deals concerned about 1,500,000 bushels of wheat sold to Red China two months ago. The Chinese placed the order with one firm but the head office in New York cancelled the sale. It was then placed with another firm and the second company asked a firm in Canada to appear as front in the deal.

Eventually the wheat was sold through a Vancouver firm and other companies, the paper says.

DEAL ELSEWHERE

Grain brokers thought that due to the reluctance of large firms to deal with China that country might buy wheat elsewhere than in Canada.

The Tribune says a Canadian trade official is reported to have suggested to federal authorities that international grain firms should not act as agents for the Canadian Wheat Board, as they now do, because they do not have the interests of Canada at heart.

Car Intent Then Slap And Dent

Manfred Lumpp, 1270 Yates, received a slap on the face and a dent in the wallet for an attempt to take a car without the owner's consent. They just added insult to the frustration of not being able to start the car.

Const. Alfred Cave told city police court yesterday that he saw a man enter a parked car on Yates Street and attempt to start it. As the man stepped out of the car, owner Ronald Fitzhenry approached and a scuffle ensued, ending in a hand to the face of Lumpp before he was taken into custody.

Accused rubbed his cheek reminiscently as his fine was announced—$75.

Fraser Brigade

We hurriedly threw up tents to end the second day eventful travelling that this tenderfoot wouldn't have missed for the world.

A wonderful, carefree and sometimes exciting pattern is evolving as we swiftly slip (about 10 miles an hour) down the Fraser.

It started Thursday morning when, not far from our Wednesday night camping spot near Prince George, we came to the half-mile rapids of Fort George Canyon. This is rough water and dangerous, with whirlpools that suddenly "boil" open without warning.

FIRST DUNKING

Here one of our canoes in which I was paddling suffered the brigade's first gentle baptism.

We hit one of the boils, swirled around frighteningly and suddenly found ourselves paddling with our knees in eight inches of water.

Today we came to Cottonwood Canyon, shorter but fiercer.

Leader Dick Corless ordered just four men to a canoe and headed the group, taking the first canoe down. Then he and his three men walked back and brought another canoe down while four other canoeists took the remaining one.

FULL MARKS

The rest of us clambered over what must be the toughest, wildest country in the world in a portage that has decided me to give the original Simon Fraser the fullest marks for everything he did.

The canoes were swirled around but came through without incident.

A tired beginner's muscles notwithstanding (I am paddling along with the rest of them), there is a great pleasure in the men's camaraderie, the jokes and the impromptu snatches of bubbling song, the evening campfires' glow and the embracing welcome of a sleeping bag beside a Fraser that at night seems to subside into murmuring softness.

Rock Hudson, the No. 1 box-office champ all over the world, has received a "Bambi" award statuette from Berlin naming him the most popular star in Germany.

Driver Killed in Spectacular Pile-Up

Biggest crash in the history of the Indianapolis 500 brought death yesterday to Pat O'Connor, but only one other driver was hurt in the 12-car crack-up. Jerry Unser's car flipped over the retaining wall, and the rookie driver suffered a dislocated shoulder. Other cars shown in this views of the crash are, by drivers: 1, Art Bisch; 2, Mike Magill; 3, Shorty Templeman; 4, Al Keller; 5, Paul Russo; 6, Dempsey Wilson; 7, Jud Larson; 8, Johnny Parsons; 9, Chuck Weyant; 10, Bill Cheesbourg; 11, Paul Goldsmith; 12, O'Connor; 13, Ed Elisian; 14, Jimmy Reece, and 15, Dick Rathmann. Parsons, Russo, Templeman and Magill were able to return to the race. Story on page 9.—(AP Photofax.)

Yanks Lose Twice To Lowly Senators

Seven American League clubs looked up a bit more hopefully yesterday as New York's runaway Yankees crashed to their third and fourth straight defeats.

* * *

Adding to the feature news of the busy holiday baseball schedule was the fact that it was the last-place (until yesterday) Washington Senators who made the Yankees bite the dust twice in one day.

New York pitching, spectacular as the Yankees built up a huge lead, went sour yesterday as two southpaws failed to stem the righthanded power of the Washington Senators in 13-6 and 7-2 defeats.

SEVEN FOR ROY

Roy Sievers batted in seven runs with three home runs, two in the last game, in which Jim Lemon also poled two out of Yankee Stadium. Ken Aspromonte also hit for four bases, in the first game when the Senators opened with six runs in the first two innings and closed with seven in the last two.

Whitey Ford gave up the first six runs in the first game before he was derricked in the fourth inning, but the defeat went to Bob Grim, who blew an 8-6 lead when the Senators broke loose for six runs in the eighth. Bobby Shantz just couldn't handle Sievers and Lemon in the second game.

The double defeat only cut the Yankee lead to six and a half games as the second-place Kansas City Athletics split a twin bill with the third-place Cleveland Indians.

WHITE SOX MOVE

Moving into the first division and balancing their record for the season were the Chicago White Sox, who took 6-5 and 4-2 decisions from Detroit Tigers.

Successive singles by Nellie Fox, Walt Dropo and Sherm Lollar after two were out in the ninth provided the winning run in the first game as Al Smith saved it with a circus catch which was turned into a game-ending double play. Steady pitching by Billy Pierce was the story in the last game.

GIANTS LOSE PAIR

It was a bad day, too, for the National League leaders as St. Louis Cardinals upended the San Francisco Giants twice, 7-6 and 8-1, to enable Milwaukee Braves to pick up a game. The Braves split with the third place Pittsburgh Pirates, winning by 7-4 and losing by 12-6.

A wild pitch in the 10th inning by Ray Crone lost the first one for the Giants, and they couldn't do anything with Jim Brosnan in the second. Joe Cunningham drove in three runs in each game for the Cards while Ken Boyer smashed a pair of two-run homers in the nightcap as bonus-southpaw Mike McCormick was beaten for the first time this season.

Two bad fielding plays by Frank Thomas set up a four-run ninth inning which won the first game for the Braves but they couldn't match the Pirate attack in the afterpiece although Del Crandall hit two home runs and Wes Covington and Harry Hanebrink one each. The Pirates didn't hit any home runs but they banged away for 18 safeties, routing their old nemesis, Lew Burdette, in the sixth inning.

IT GETS WORSE

Los Angeles Dodgers blew a pair to Chicago Cubs, 3-2, and 10-8. They lost the first one when the Cubs got three runs in the ninth with Johnny Podres apparently headed for a shutout, then frittered away a 6-0 lead in the nightcap.

Ex-Dodger Walt Moryn was the Chicago hero. After providing the big blow in the first game with a double, he clouted three home runs in the second game, his last one coming with a mate aboard in the ninth to break an 8-8 tie.

Smokey Burgess and Steve Bilko each hit a home-run and Harvey Haddix tamed his ex-teammates on five hits as Cincinnati Redlegs trimmed Philadelphia Phillies, 10-1, in the day's only single game.

SPORTS REVUE

By Jimmy Cannon

NEW YORK—There is only one way Leo Durocher measures a man: You're game or you're a dog. He searched for the flaw of cowardice in ballplayers when he managed. Even those he despised got his respect if he couldn't bull them. And today, Durocher, who had visited Roy Campanella in the morning, was talking about the courage of the paralyzed catcher.

"I walked in on him," said Durocher, "and you know what he says? 'Skip,' he says—he always calls me 'Skip' as if I was still his manager—'How's Laraine? How's my boy Chris? How's Michele?' Can you imagine that! There he is, lying there, asking about my family. I asked Roy how he was doing. He said 'Skip, I'm on the way up. Don't worry about me. I'm going to make it.'

"He's so confident! If determination and will counts, this man's going to make it. You lay down on the bed when you go home. Lay down without a pillow. Eat a sandwich and try to get it down, lying there flat. See how hard it is. Well, that's what Roy's been going through. But now they're starting to get him to sit up. While I was there, he kept moving his arms in a kind of exercise. He has trouble moving his fingers.

"He has a special pair of glasses that he uses to watch television while he's lying flat in bed. He made me try them. You can look straight ahead and see your shoes while you're standing up. He sees as many games as he can, and listens to them on the radio. He talked about the club.

"He asked me how about the spot the other night. Willie Mays is up and first base is open. 'Man, you got to put him on first base,' he says 'You can't pitch to him. But they start to pitch to him and what happened? Bing! Willie hit a home run, three runs. You just can't pitch to Willie when you got first base open. You got to put him on.'

* * *

"It disturbes Roy because the Dodgers are in last place. He was going to send them another wire when I left. He said 'Skip, they can't be in last place. It don't seem possible. How can they be in last place?' I looked at him and there were tears in his eyes. I had tears in mine, too. You know why? I was talking to him, maybe, for an hour. Not once did he sound like he was sorry for himself. But he starts talking about the ball club going bad and he gets tears in his eyes. I had to go then. I just couldn't stand to see those tears in his eyes.

"You want to know the main thing's wrong with the Dodgers? Roy Campanella, lying flat on his back. That's the big thing wrong with them. Roy Campanella—I never heard anyone in baseball, visiting club or the Dodgers, ever say anything bad about him. He's loved by everyone.

"It's not what he would be doing with his bat. And he's still one hell of a catcher. It's just being there. Roy Campanella, just being in the clubhouse. Morale-wise, Roy Campanella, what a man he was in the clubhouse! You know how he conned those young pitchers.

"I managed against him, and I know. I've seen guys couldn't pitch up an alley. But he'd con them and talk to them and handle them and they'd pitch pretty good. I said it years ago—you know that, Jimmy. You heard me say it when I was in the league: two men—when they stop playing—the Dodgers will come back to the league. Pee Wee Reese and Roy Campanella—they were the leaders. How those young pitchers miss Roy!

"The Dodgers aren't this bad, I don't think. I think they waited too long with replacements but the crux to the whole thing is Roy Campanella lying flat on his back."

Pitchers Give Mounties Lead

Vancouver Mounties pulled back into first place in the Pacific Coast Baseball League yesterday by sweeping a doubleheader from Sacramento Solons while Phoenix Giants got nothing better than a split with Portland Beavers.

Good pitching was again the Mounties' strength as Erv Palica came up with a steady eight-hitter to win the first game, 4-2, and veteran George Bamberger spun a two-hit shutout to take the seven-inning finale, 2-0.

Ex-football great Paul Giel also pitched a two-hitter as the Giants took their first game 3-0, but the Beavers won the second, 5-4.

Seattle Rainiers, still mired in the cellar, took 5-4 and 5-3 decisions from San Diego Padres. Outfield speedster Vada Pinson stole home with the winning run in the first game.

Tudor House	2	6	.250	5½

Last night's score: Mary's Coffee Bar 20, Tudor House 8.

Next game: Sunday, Dickinson & Dunn vs. Mary's Coffee Bar, 6.45, Heywood Avenue Park.

Stu Mitchell drove in three runs and scored another at Central Park last night as Gorge Hotel continued to romp through the Senior "A" Men's Softball League with an 8-4 victory over Mayo Lumber of Duncan.

It was the seventh victory in eight starts for the defending champions, who now lead the league by two and one-half games.

Duncan got a run off veteran Ed Foychuck in the first inning, but Gorge tied the score in the fourth on singles by Mitchell, Chick Newman and Leroy Bond.

Mitchell drove in two more runs with a single in the fifth.

The Lumbermen fought back to tie the score at 3-3, but Gorge scored twice more in the seventh and added three more runs in the eighth.

CLOBBERED

At Heywood Avenue Park, Mary's Coffee Bar moved out of the cellar in the Senior "B" Men's Softball League, trouncing Tudor House, 20-8.

George Wilmot led the attack with three hits in five trips, including a two-run homer. Alex Speirs drove in four runs for the losers with two hits.

Mayo Lumber 100 002 001—4 12 1
Gorge Hotel 000 120 23x—8 14 1
Mike Clegg and Dennis Stubbs; Ed Foychuck, Dave Price (8) and Ab Wiebe.

Cricket Play

Albions meet Oak Bay at 2.30 today in Victoria and District Cricket Association play at Beacon Hill Park.

In Sunday's action, Alcos play Five C's at Windsor Park at 2.30 and Cowichan meets Incogs at Duncan at 2.30.

Oak Bay—D. Wallace, J. Sparks, A. Wright, K. Wright, P. Gadpan, J. Thornton, Bob Colquhoun, M. Abbott, J. Adams, J. Littlemore, R. Ravenhill.

Mofitt Eliminated In Quarter-Finals

VANCOUVER—Canada's largest tennis tournament heads into its last two days minus another of the men's open singles favorites and with only three senior players in position to score a "clean sweep."

Unseeded Jack Pedlar of Vancouver upset fourth-seeded George Mofitt of West Vancouver, 4-6, 8-6, 6-3, yesterday in the quarter-finals of the men's singles of the B.C. parks championships.

Pedlar plays Art Jeffrey today in one semi-final while top-seeded Davis Cupper Paul Willey meets Bill Picken in the other semi.

Victoria's Sue Butt, second ranking woman player in Canada, lost her chance to repeat the feat of sweeping all three open titles (singles, women's doubles, mixed doubles) when she and Jocelyn Pease were beaten, 6-0, 6-2, in women's doubles by Bev Danby and Marg McLean.

Miss Danby, Willey and Jeffery now are the only three senior players who still have a chance to win all three crowns.

Willey and Jeffery were nearly bumped from the men's doubles Friday as they were carried to three sets before beating Miss Morfitt and Bruce Jaffary, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1.

The men's and women's open singles finals will be played Sunday, but nine of 17 finals, including the men's and women's doubles, are slated for today.

Big Springs Found In Oak Bay Waters

Although it is ordinarily mid-June before the fishing gets near its peak, probably the best spot for big springs at the moment are waters off Oak Bay.

Regulars have been picking up salmon from five to 25 pounds steadily, many over 15 pounds. Charlie Guiguet has been out regularly with very few blank trips. Among his catch were 25 and 23-pounders while son Mark entered a 15½-pounder in The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest.

Cycling a Victim . . . . . . of Motor-Scooter

Soccer and Rugby Win Popularity in France

By ED SIMON

LONDON (CP) — The French sports fan is changing his ways.

He is losing his enthusiasm for cycling, boxing and track and field events while he transfers his affections increasingly to soccer and rugby football.

The changes are noted in the Paris weekly, l'Express, which records that 200,000 spectators watched soccer matches on a recent Sunday while another 150,000, mainly in the south of France, paid to see rugger.

Meanwhile a program of cycling races which in past years had drawn as many as 19,000 people, averages 3,000 people, averages 3,000 to 6,000 and a recent world title fight pulled in only 8,500. An appearance of Emil Zatopek, the great Czech distance runner, attracted only 8,500 fans to a Paris track meet.

The boom in soccer is particularly noticeable. Second Division matches have doubled their attendance this season and an estimated 10,000,000 viewers watch every televised game.

L'Express offers the theory that these changes are due to a growing tendency among Frenchmen to follow the games they played in their youth, identifying themselves with the players on the field.

It ascribes the sagging interest in cycling to the ousting of the humble bicyle in favor of the motor-scooter as low-cost transportation. The declining fortunes of boxing are connected with knowledge of what happens to over-the-hill boxers. Nobody wants to identify himself with a punch-drunk stumblebum.

Similarly, there is a growing following for volleyball, a game that started as a favorite seaside diversion.

A sport conspicuously absent from the newspaper's survey is horse-racing, which remains as popular as ever.

Not many Frenchmen identify themselves with horses. But they share an international affection for holding a winning ticket.

Webb Clamors For Title Fight

Middleweight contender Spider Webb, who has made repeated demands for a chance at the world championship, was clamoring louder than ever last night after winning a split decision from aggressive Jim Beecham in their 10-round bout at Miami Beach.

It was the 27th victory in 30 fights for Webb, who had his campaign interrupted when he was outpointed by Holly Mims in his last fight March 12.

On a 10-point basis, Webb got the votes of the two judges, 98-94 and 97-95, but referee Cy Gottfried favored Beecham, 98-93. Webb, the harder puncher of the two, had difficulty throughout in nailing the bobbing Beecham solidly, although he did shake him up in the fifth and eighth rounds.

Speedway Claims 48th Life—Speedy Crew Wins for Bryan

By JERRY LISKA

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Steady-driving Jimmy Bryan, in last year's winning car, Friday captured the 42nd Indianapolis 500-mile auto race in which a 15-car smashup killed veteran Pat O'Connor at the start.

Bryan, United States big car champion, won by 27 seconds over rookie George Amick, 33, from Venice, Calif., in the event's second fastest time — 133.791 miles an hour.

O'Connor, 29, making his fifth Speedway start, died in flames after his car turned over in the pileup as the 33-car field took the northeast corner for the first time.

Miraculously, only one other casualty—that a dislocated right shoulder suffered by Jerry Unser—resulted from the whiplashing of the 15 cars which kept the race from hitting top speed for 25 minutes.

Bryan, from Phoenix, Ariz., won as expected in the yellow, flat-engined Belond Spec., which gave retired Sam Hanks his first 500 triumph last year.

Hanks set the record of 135.601 miles an hour last year.

Bryan actually won on the basis of this three well-timed pit stops. He spent only one minute, 31 seconds in the pits, 30.4 seconds less than Amick.

Johnny Boyd of Fresno, Calif., was third; Jim Rathmann of Biami fourth; and Tony Bettenhausen of Tinley Park, Ill., fifth.

Sixth was Jimmy Reece of Indianapolis; seventh, Don Freeland, Indianapolis; eighth, Jud Larson, another rookie, Hickman Mills, Mo.; ninth, Eddie Johnson, Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, and 10th, Bill Cheesebourg, Tucson, Ariz.

The spectacular crash came after the field got off to perhaps its poorest start in history. The confusion started when pole driver Dick Rathmann jumped onto the track ahead of the pace car. Two other cars in the first row, driven by Ed Elisian and Jimmy Reece, followed suit.

With the pace car leading the rest of the field and the first row playing hide-and-seek around the 2½-mile track, it wasn't until the third time around that the leaders roared into their front places, just before the green flag was flashed.

The field, staggered considerably by this time, instead of the customary neat 11 rows of three cars, negotiated the dangerous first southwest corner and the southeast corner.

Disaster hit at the northwest turn. Elisian spun. Rathmann tried to go around him, but also whirled.

"It was just a mess," Rathmann said. "My car split in half."

Into the pileup sped O'Connor. His car overturned and burst into flames. He was burned about the face and upper body and could not be extricated until the fire was put out. His death was due to a skull fracture.

Cars driven by Bob Veith, Paul Russo, Paul Goldsmith, Art Bisch, Len Sutton, Mike Magill, Shorty Templeton, Johnny Parsons, Jerry Unser, Reece, Cheesebourg and Johnny Thompson were involved in the wreck.

Reece, Cheesebourg, Thompson, Magill, Russo, Templeton and Parsons continued in the race, although most needed repairs.

In the scene of utter confusion that resembled a race car junkyard, the death of O'Connor came in much the same fashion as the last race victim to lose his life, Bill Vukovich, in a four-car wreck three years ago. The Speedway now has claimed 48 lives.

Despite beautiful weather, the crowd of more than 150,000 was sobered by the news of O'Connor's death. O'Connor, of North Vernon, Ind., had driven almost 2,000 miles in competition at the Speedway, more than any other active Speedway [illegible]

The big wreck was the Speedway's worst since a seven-car smashup in 1930. It eliminated two of the fastest cars of the time trials—driven by Dick Rathmann and Elisian.

The survival of only 14 cars was one of the highest elimina- [illegible] ning at the finish of the 1951 race.

Foundation Moves Ahead On Split News

TORONTO (CP)—Industrials were ahead, but the rest of the stock market slipped in light closing trading.

The industrial index was ahead over one-half point, golds were off a few decimal points and base metals and western oils had a little heavier losses.

Final volume of 2,358,000 shares was down from Thursday's 3,054,000.

Foundation Company moved ahead 1½ points at 24½ on word of a directors approval of a 2-for-1 stock split. Among other winners was Dominion Steel, gaining 1⅛ points at 22⅜.

Canadian Tire dipped 4½ points at 100 on one sale.

Four penny issues accounted for over one-quarter of the total volume. Zenmac mines added three cents at 30 on 205,000 shares; Maritimes Mining climbed 8 cents on 172,000; New Senator Gold picked up ½ cent at 5½ on 138,500 and Maralgo moved up 3 cents at 62 on 107,650 shares.

Golds, base metals and western oils for the most part traded in a ½-point range.

Gains at Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Gains were in the majority at the close of light trading Friday on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges.

Pipelines, refining oils and miscellaneous stocks were generally stronger. Gains of one point were made by Montreal Trust at a new high of 38 and Trans-Mountain Pipeline at 56½. Abitca climbed 2 points and Bathurst Power went down ¼.

All other groups for which trends could be established, including penny mines, were mixed.

Prices Teeter

VANCOUVER — Stock prices teetered in a moderately quiet session. B.C. Forest Products strengthened to $10⅝, but MacMillan was softer at $28⅜.

Bralorne was 6.40 and Craigmont 2.55 in mines.

London Stock Prices

LONDON (CP) — Gilt-edged securities were firm on a small investment demand on the London Stock Exchange. Dollar stocks were mainly better, reflecting the overnight advance on Wall Street.

Industrials were quiet with price movements small and irregular. Oil shares opened firm under Wall Street influence but later reacted. Shell Transport held firm, however, following its quarterly statement.

South African gold shares were quiet and irregular.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP) — Selling appeared in most grains prompted by reports of showers across the prairies. Export interest was light, but export houses made some purchases of flax on recessions.

Flax and rye prices were easier and had commission house selling.

American interest in trading today was quiet because of the observance of the Memorial Day holiday in the United States.

Trade reports said negotiations are under way for the sale of 350,000 bushels of Canadian wheat to Red China. There were no details and it was not known if this had any connection with unofficial reports Thursday that China had bought 1,500,000 bushels of No. 3 Northern.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat included: Russia 375,000 bushels, Switzerland 375,000, West Germany 295,000, Belgium 170,000, United Kingdom 105,000, Venezuela 80,000.

Profits Lowest Since 'Frisco Quake

Insurance Going Up?

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

An insurance company which does business all over the world reports that in 1957 it made an underwriting profit of only 1.2 per cent on its fire, casualty, automobile and marine premiums.

The Royal Insurance Company, parent company of the Royal Liverpool group—said that this was a lower percentage than in any year since 1906 when the San Francisco earthquake produced abnormal claims.

The position was most unsatisfactory for insurers doing business in North America according to T. H. Naylor, chairman of the Royal board.

Mr. Naylor said that inflation was largely responsible. Premium rates were calculated upon past experience and charged at best upon current values. When claims had to be settled it was found that values had increased thus throwing out insurance rate calculations.

The modern car manufacturer also came in for criticism.

Mr. Naylor deplored the current trend in design and construction which led quite disproportionately expensive repair bills.

"Our most pressing need is to increase premium rates on those classes of business which do not give adequate remuneration," said Mr. Naylor.

"In Canada steps have already been taken which will, I believe go a long way towards bringing back our accident and fire business to its usual profitable level."

In other words, Canadians can expect to pay more for their coverage in the near future.

STORE SALES SOAR

Record sales and profits are reported by Dominion Stores [illegible] March 22, 1958.

The net profit was $6,548,125 ($4.06 a share) compared with $5,722,981 ($3.55 a share) in the previous year, an increase of 14 per cent.

Sales were up 15 per cent above the previous high at $311,685,902. Last year they were $270,518,579.

Thirty-nine new stores were opened including the one in Vancouver which was the biggest supermarket in the chain.

The 40,000 5½% Cumulative Redeemable Preference Shares (Series 1958) of the par value of $25 each [hereinafter called the "5½% Preference Shares (Series 1958)"] and the 40,000 Ordinary Shares of the par value of $5 each will be offered in Units, each Unit to consist of one 5½% Preference Share (Series 1958) and one Ordinary Share. Units will be issued represented by interim certificates for 5½% Preference Shares (Series 1958) in fully registered form which will bear a notation thereon to the effect that the Ordinary Shares appertaining thereto have been deposited with the Depositary pursuant to the terms of the Deposit Agreement referred to in paragraph (l) of the Statutory Information contained in the offering prospectus. Definitive certificates for 5½% Preference Shares (Series 1958) and definitive certificates for Ordinary Shares will be made available separately at some time not earlier than June 19, 1958, at the option of the Company but, in any event, not later than December 1, 1958.

In the opinion of Counsel, these 5½% Preference Shares (Series 1958) and Ordinary Shares will be investments in which the Canadian and British Insurance Companies Act states that companies registered under Part III thereof may invest their funds without resorting to the provisions of subsection (4) of section 63 of such Act.

We, as principals, offer these 40,000 Units if, as and when issued by the Company and accepted by us, subject to prior sale or change in price and subject to the approval of all legal matters on our behalf by Messrs. Dixon, Senecal, Turnbull, Mitchell, Stairs, Culver & Kierans, Montreal, and on behalf of the Company by Messrs. Cook, Bartlett & Chalker, St. John's, on whose opinion our Counsel will rely as to all matters of Newfoundland law.

PRICE: $30 per Unit flat

Dividends on the 5½% Preference Shares (Series 1958) will accrue from June 1, 1958.

We reserve the right to accept applications for these Units in whole or in part or to reject any application and to withdraw this offer at any time without notice. It is expected that Units will be available for delivery on or about June 3, 1958.

A copy of the prospectus will be furnished promptly on request.

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

Is it not astonishing that the Protestant church has presented no brief to the Cameron Commission currently studying education in Alberta? Nothing so points up the change in the church's position in society.

... system was created by the church. So were our universities. The educational system of John Knox made Scotland the best educated country in the world. The church, Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish, pioneered educational theory and institutions in Europe and America.

John Strachan, a Presbyterian minister who became an Anglican bishop, and Egerton Ryerson laid the foundations for Toronto University.

Presbyterians founded Queen's University. All the great American universities were founded by the church.

In the United States the doctrine of separation of church and state has finally excluded all formal religion from schools. Ontario ... integrated all denominational schools into a state-controlled system. Gradually most of the provinces have created a similar system with one ... exception of the Roman Catholic separate schools.

No Pattern or Plan

The result has not been by any means completely satisfactory. We find Walter Lippmann complaining that education ... Hutchins ... made similar charges.

... Religious education has grown up among our youth ... we train children to believe that religion ... we develop a soulless education which makes rates young people with the faith that they have no souls. It results in a drifting, direction ... separating religion and education ... and ...

... A British Committee on Secondary Education reported an almost instinctive desire, particularly among the young, for more religion in ... and education. They held ... every possible opportunity ... be given by the state for the effective training of every child in the religious principles approved by its parents or guardian, provided that such training is not hostile to the state."

The fact is that separation of religion and education ... democracy. A dangerous admiration of Commun...

Color Bar Exists Here Says Pastor

A Negro minister from Los Angeles will exchange pulpits with Rev. A. L. Avery of St. Aidan's United Church here during July. Visitor is Rev. Nelson B. Higgins of Normandy Methodist Church, a church with both Negroes and whites among its congregation.

"Our congregation is absolutely thrilled about it," said Mr. Avery. "It will do a lot to encourage racial integration in Canada, particularly in relation to Indians."

Mr. Avery said native Indians here are "just as discriminated against" as Negroes in the U.S. "We in Canada think we haven't any racial problems, but we definitely have."

Garden Notes

Radishes Child's Play

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

My gardening career started on the day my dad handed me a packet of radish seeds and allowed me to sow a short row all on my own.

I can still remember the wild excitement with which I watched the [illegible] ground and the impatience which drove me to keep pulling them up to see if there were really and truly radishes forming underground. I imagine almost every child makes his start in gardening with this easiest of all vegetables.

While these seeds never fail to germinate and grow, there are still a few tricks of the trade to be learned if you are to have mild and crisp radishes all through the growing season rather than those peppery, hot, woody ones or hollow, spongy, tasteless specimens so common during the hotter part of the summer.

While radishes are not in the least fussy as to where they grow, they too have a mild preference for soil which is reasonably fertile and well drained, and their flavor and texture is not so good in ground which bakes and cracks in the sun.

For this reason I make it a practice to mix a little peat moss into the top two inches to keep it loose and friable and more retentive of moisture.

To guard against wormy radishes, I dust the surface with 2½ per cent Aldrin dust, about half a cupful to the square yard, and rake it in well.

The favorite radish in our family is one called Cherry Belle, a variety which originated in Holland about six years ago and is stocked now by seeds [illegible].

Cherry Belle is a little beauty, round and smooth, a little less than an inch across, and resembling a cherry in both shape and color.

There is no white tip to it and it makes surprisingly few leaves above ground and it is without doubt the fastest-growing of the whole radish family, maturing in just 23 days. There is a newer kind called Champion supposed to be a bit larger than Cherry Belle but I haven't got around to trying it yet.

One thing you have to remember about growing radishes is that you can't leave them in the ground like a food bank until you are ready to eat them. This works all right with carrots and parsnips, but radishes are at their peak of crispness and flavor for only a few days after maturing and if you don't pull them at just the right time they start going downhill in quality within a week.

For this reason, I think it is silly to devote a whole long row in the vegetable garden solely to radishes. They would all "come in" at the same time and you'd be eating radishes until they were coming out your ears.

You couldn't possibly use them up fast enough and the whole family would be sick and tired of the sight of them before [illegible] you [illegible].

Little and often is the golden rule for sowing radish seed, and for our family we put in about three yards of row every weekend, spacing the seeds an inch apart. In this way we have a small new batch of radish reaching their peak of crunchy goodness every week throughout the growing season.

Our radishes don't ever get a row to themselves, as I find we can raise all we can eat in the spaces between the slow-growing things like sprouts and cabbage. The little 23-day Cherry Belles will be pulled and eaten long before the [illegible] occupants of the row need all the room.

Another stunt we have is to sow a few radish seeds thinly in the same rows as the beets, carrots, parsnips and such subjects which are somewhat slow to germinate. The quick-growing radishes spring up in a few days and these mark the position of the rows while awaiting the appearance of the beet and carrot seedlings, making it easier to weed the right places.

The Viewing World

By John Crosby

Vanishing Cracker Barrel

Pea-Pickin' Ern May Be Last Of Dying 'Just-Folks' Breed

Tennessee Ernie Ford, who may be the last of the back-woods [illegible] that has included Will Rogers, Mark Twain, Josh Billings and just possibly Tennessee (though Tennessee didn't get into the upper income bracket the others did), passed through town the other day scattering homely wisdom and cracker barrel metaphors to the city slickers like me.

Seated in the Edwardian Room of the Plaza, where the decor goes reasonably well with the man, he puffed on a cigaret and [illegible] by the idea that he'd be on the air in a few hours and emitted philosophy in a gentle stream. "They don't need me that," he said of rehearsals.

"If there's one thing wrong with a lot of shows it's that they're over-produced and over-rehearsed. We like to surprise everybody on our show, even the cameramen. They don't like it much, but it shore makes things more interesting."

* * *

For all his farmyard stories, pure as hog's [illegible], [illegible] enough to hear him [illegible] the hawg, Tennessee Ernie Ford is a shrewd student of audience, whether city or country.

"We don't use jokes on our show much. Uses steal of jokes. And we talk about anything. You'd be surprised at how many things are never said on television—simple things like 'How's the folks?' I like to talk about things that will cause the man and wife and kids at home to nudge each other knowingly and say, 'You remember when that happened to us?'"

* * *

I can remember way back in radio days when the air was full of people who were trying to be "just folks," including some fairly sleazy Broadway characters who had great difficulty concealing the patrons in their voices. Ernie Ford is virtually the only one playing "just folks" with any degree of conviction these days. Most of the comedians dress like bankers (Ford does this, too, which may be a mistake) and talk like movie stars.

TENNESSEE ERNIE . . . 'veteran beginning'

Ford doesn't, which may be why his show has been pretty durable. "I don't know about anybody else, but I feel like I'm just beginning," he says. That's pretty surprising coming from a guy who's been in television nine years, starting with a five-a-week daytime show.

BRIDGE QUIZ

One of the virtues of Louis H. Watson's classic book on "The Play of the Hand" is that it starts the reader off with sound technique but leaves the complexities to be discussed in Part Two. Thus the advanced player will find everything covered in the new and revised edition recently published (totaling 47 pages, $[illegible]) but the inexperienced player is led along the road at a pace that is not difficult to follow.

Rereading the book after nearly 25 years (it was originally published in 1934) it is amazing as editor Sam Fry points out how little skillful play has altered from Watson's exposition of the game. Today's quiz, made up of examples from a chapter on defensive play, covers the situation where you are second hand playing after declarer's lead up to an exposed dummy. In each of the following examples, what card should West play?

ANSWER TO BRIDGE QUIZ

(a) Cover with the king. There is nothing to lose if South has all the missing honors. But he may have led from Q-J-8-3 and [illegible] [illegible] guess if on the second lead of the suit East ducks with his jack.

(b) Duck. If South has led from queen-jack-nine, covering the first lead will expose partner's ten spot to capture by a return finesse.

(c) Duck. There is nothing to be gained by covering if South holds the ten and nine. But he may be leading from the king as well and trying to decide which way to finesse for the queen.

(d) Cover. Partner may have the king-nine, in which case failure to play the queen can cost your side a trick.

(e) Cover. Ducking will give declarer two tricks if he [illegible] a second finesse. Covering with the queen will hold loss to one if partner has the nine.

(f) Cover. The only chance for two tricks in the suit is if partner holds queen-nine [illegible].

The answer is simple with a key as one of the owners showed a Colonist reporter yesterday. But then again some of them don't even need a key.

Glider Crash Injures Ace

VANCOUVER (CP) — Wolfgang Schoeffert, who flew 1,100 hours with the German Luftwaffe during the Second World War, was recovering yesterday in hospital here from compound fractures of both legs suffered last weekend in a glider crash.

He had to be sawed from the cockpit of his glider after it spiralled and crashed nose first while landing at the Abbotsford airport.

Police Told: No Sirens For VIPs

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police escorts for visiting dignitaries have been told no speeding and no sirens. Two aldermen complained that police motorcycles escorting Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands on his visit here did so with sirens screaming. In future requests from official parties for higher speeds "shall be politely but firmly declined."

Announcing 10 recent gifts to the Greater Victoria Art Gallery, curator Colin Graham added an appeal yesterday to Victorians who own works of art to contribute them as centennial gifts for the new wing or by bequest for a later time.

"From an international perspective our gallery is arriving somewhat late on the scene," he said. "We must work hard and quickly to build up a permanent collection comparable to those in the long-established galleries of the United States and Europe.

More Conflicting Statements In NORAD 'Crossword Puzzle'

OTTAWA (CP) — The flow of conflicting statements on the status of the North American Air Defence Command NORAD continued unabated Friday.

In the Commons the Opposition [illegible] quoting Paul-Henri Spaak, secretary-general of NATO, as saying Wednesday that NORAD is not a part or an extension of NATO and has never been discussed in NATO.

DIEFENBAKER REPLY

Prime Minister Diefenbaker replied:

"As far as the purported report is concerned, I have seen it and having regard to what actually took place it is apparent that the interpretation given in the press is not in accordance with the statement made by Mr. Spaak."

Later outside the Commons Mr. Diefenbaker issued a statement which seemed to remove any blame from the press and to take issue with Mr. Spaak, now on a Canadian goodwill visit. The statement said:

NOT A NATO COMMAND

"Mr. Spaak must have had in mind the fact that NORAD is not strictly speaking a NATO command.

"Military planning in the area is, however, reported to NATO through the Canada-U.S. regional planning group, which is made up of the chiefs of staff of both countries.

"Accordingly the NATO Council is kept informed of air defence arrangements in the Canada-U.S. region."

NO CHANGE IN VIEWPOINT

Mr. Diefenbaker said in the Commons in reply to Paul Martin (L, Essex East) that "as far as I am concerned, there is no change in the viewpoint expressed respecting the position of NORAD." He added:

"It would take a considerable length of time in order to cover this matter with the necessary details. I do not intend to deal with it piecemeal because [illegible] the whole question will be available for debate in a few days."

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

H. W. Herridge [illegible] described the question as "parliament's greatest crossword puzzle."

'Churchill' Lures $ $

LONDON (UPI)—Almost half of the nearly $10,000,000 needed to build a college named after Sir Winston Churchill has been raised in less than a month, it was announced yesterday.

Early this month an appeal for $9,800,000 was made for the college which will aim at turning out top flight scientists and technologists.

The first list of subscribers showed that $4,200,000 already has been raised.

R. E. McKenzie, director of the provincial govern[illegible] said that the heaviest infestations of the devastating grasshoppers were in the districts of Radville, Tribune, Torquay, Lake Alma, Minton, Coronach, Glentworth, Mankota, Pontelx, Kincaid, Lafleche and Mortlach.

Geography 'Sprayed On'

EDMONTON (CP) — Elementary geography in Canadian schools has suffered in the past 40 years from "neglect leading almost to starvation," says Dr. Trevor Lloyd.

[illegible] of modern youth to pinpoint on the map this place or that with the supposed speed and accuracy of their elders.

Dr. Lloyd, chairman of the geography department at New Hampshire's Dartmouth College, gave his presidential address to the Canadian Association of Geographers Thursday night.

Alberta had become a main [illegible] of "the heresy" that young minds should be merely "sprayed" with random samples of education.

[illegible] he said, geography's neglect in the classroom had, it is generally recognized, has been due to an almost total lack of qualified teachers. To make matters worse, there were for many years no modern textbooks prepared especially for use in Canadian schools by authors who were themselves geography teachers.

Adding to the problem, Dr. Lloyd said, is the fact that curriculum planners have left elementary geography become "lost" in the newly created subject, social studies.

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP) — A [illegible]-year-old native Texan plans to cap his trip across the Atlantic in a fibre-glass outboard cabin cruiser with a swim across the English Channel.

Roy Sutter [illegible]

Bradshaw announced he has quit his job to make the trip to Europe. He was going to the continent anyway but said he wanted [illegible] the trip with Sutter "just to save the fare."

"I just like adventure," Bradshaw said.

Sutter plans to float his 18-foot specially-built boat next Wednesday for test trips. The boat will be [illegible] [illegible] load about the weight [illegible] carry on the Atlantic trip [illegible] 2,000 pounds of gasoline.

The boat has an 84-inch beam and weighs 2,000 pounds. Engineers rated the boat as the best for the [illegible] because of its wide beam, [illegible] bottom which [illegible] power and speed for the [illegible].

Russia:

Fascinating, Frustrating, Frightening

WINNIPEG (CP) — A Canadian executive who has just completed a 10-day visit to Russia said yesterday he found the country fascinating, frustrating and frightening.

Walter P. McLachlan, executive vice-president of A. V. Roe Canada Limited, spoke at the annual meeting of the Canadian Standards Association. He said people behind the Iron Curtain are not troubled by the torments, tribulations and doubts of the free world.

COMPLETELY INSULATED

"These people are insulated completely from any knowledge of what you and I are doing or thinking, and each year they are experiencing a marked improvement over their previous standard of living.

"From our point of view their standard of living is still comparatively low [illegible] the rate of change is such that the people see nothing but progress and they have no other yardstick but their own.

SALESMAN UNNECESSARY

"The Soviet Union is a country which has accepted a philosophy of standardization beyond anything that could be imagined in Canada," said Mr. McLachlan. "No salesman tried to convince customers that this or that was better.

"Instead of salesmen there are planners who set targets and programs for steel, transport power [illegible] [illegible]

MASTER PLAN

"Everywhere one [illegible] of a [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] end and the people are told [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] will be theirs."

Mr. McLachlan said Russia was frustrating because the way of life is so different and frightening because it came as a shock to see at first hand the [illegible] of the people.

Vancouver Group Visits Portugal

NO. 143—HUNDREDTH YEAR — VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, SATURDAY, MAY 31, 1958 — SECOND NEWS SECTION

Answer Finally Found ... To City's Big Problems

Pennies Pinched, Balloons Sagged

Pennypinching was last night blamed for Victoria's sagging balloons by Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, chairman of the Greater Victoria centennial committee.

And he says the problem of how to keep the balloons inflated has been solved.

The solution is to cover the thin rubber bladders with plastic to prevent the canvas outer coverings abrading the rubber, in Victoria's winds.

The remedy was put forward some time ago but in an effort to save money workmen only covered the top halves of the bladders with the plastic film.

This protected the top halves of the balloons but they still wore through on the bottom.

All the balloons will be taken down and completely protected with the plastic, Ald. Edgelow said.

"Climatic conditions here are much different to those in England," he said. "I feel they will be particularly popular with visitors, particularly children; they are the only balloons in North America."

Flag decorations in front of city hall will be replaced shortly, he added, and Victoria's flower baskets will be in place today.

5,000 Cheer Pageant

A sell-out crowd estimated at more than 5,000 last night cheered the second performance of the spectacular historical pageant presented by Greater Victoria secondary school students in Memorial Arena.

The [illegible] pageant [illegible] centennial [illegible] the arena [illegible] from the meeting of Capt. Cook with the Nootka Indians to a finale of British Columbia today.

More than 1,000 senior and junior high school students take part in the ambitious two-act pageant which took months to plot and prepare.

Officials said they anticipated another sell-out tonight for the last presentation of the pageant and warned ticket holders to be in their seats by 7.30 p.m. when rush seat sales start at the arena box office.

There are no reserved seats.

Beating the Robins

Cherries on a big tree at the home of Mrs. Gerry Dunn, 3097 Mulgrove, are ripe ahead of time, and beating the robins to the crop is seven-year-old Jocelyn Dunn, who likes them just as much as the birds. Cherries on a smaller tree in the same garden are still green.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Talks Renewal Boosts Hopes In Ship Strike

The stage is set in Vancouver today for new negotiations which could end the 15-day-old seamen's strike that has cut two of Vancouver Island's five transport links with the mainland and severely hit the Island's tourist business.

Eric G. Taylor, [illegible] industrial relations [illegible] appointed by the federal government, immediately upon his arrival in Vancouver yesterday began a four-hour hearing session with George R. Currie, a provincial labor relations officer, who has handled negotiations to date.

MEETS BOTH SIDES

Today Mr. Taylor plans to meet with representatives of the CPR and the unions involved in the dispute either singly or together.

Mr. Taylor last night refused to make any comment on [illegible] suggestions that he had been empowered to offer the CPR a subsidy from the federal government in an attempt to end the strike.

CPR service to Prince Rupert is subsidized.

IMPROPER COMMENT

"I think that would be an improper comment for me to make," he said. "That would be a matter for someone in the federal government to answer."

He said he could not comment on something which might have bearing on the situation before he found out if it did have any bearing.

It was impossible to get an answer last night from a government spokesman, although Defence Minister George Pearkes said in Ottawa he had not heard of any subsidy and doubted if one would be offered.

OPINIONS DIFFER

A CPR spokesman last night in Vancouver said he had no comment to make when asked if a federal subsidy would be a possible solution to the strike.

Meanwhile, opinions differed in Victoria on how long the strike would continue.

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks predicted yesterday it would be two weeks before the [illegible] businessmen felt [illegible] and management were [illegible] to end the stoppage [illegible] would [illegible] Mr. [illegible] presence as a [illegible].

$350,000 LOSS

A CPR announcement yesterday morning said the company had lost $350,000 in revenue through the strike, entering its 15th day today, and the striking seamen have lost wages totalling $[illegible].

The [illegible] involved in the dispute has asked for wage increases averaging 25 per cent. The CPR has offered 8 per cent.

Century Sam's Her Pal

A welcome prize of $25, more money than she has ever seen, was won this week by eight-year-old Darlene Meads, 1 Obed, for her coloring of "Century Sam" entered in a contest sponsored by T. Eaton Co. Marlene, who has been ill for some weeks, was represented at the award ceremonies by her brother, Darryl, 12.—(Colonist photo by Ted Harris.)

Hospital Beds Less Scarce

Waiting list of Victoria residents seeking accommodation in Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's hospitals has dropped from 200 to 92 in two weeks.

Part of the drop in numbers was caused by intensive combing out of the list at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Two weeks ago 154 persons were registered but the number dropped to 43 this week.

At St. Joseph's Hospital the total dropped from 81 to 49.

Both hospitals plan extensive additions to ease the shortage of accommodation.

Business Reasons Forced Decision

By TED SHACKLEFORD

Reeve Arthur Ash of Saanich last night announced his resignation from council.

His resignation will take effect June 7. Under the new Municipal Act a special by-election for the vacancy must be held within 30 days.

Reeve Ash is [illegible] for business reasons. He will move to San Diego, Calif.

NOT AN EASY DECISION

"It has not been an easy decision to make," he said last night. "I have been closely associated with public affairs for almost 13 years.

"[illegible] a growing municipality with [illegible] complex problems. It will take men of vision and understanding to guide its destiny."

Reeve Ash has been considering the move for some months. Rumors about his intentions caused comment but it was not until yesterday that he finally decided to make the break.

KIND TO ME

"The people of Saanich have been very kind to me over several years, and the confidence they have shown me I acknowledge with gratefulness," he continued.

"One of my greatest aims and desires was to see amalgamation of the Greater Victoria communities and I deeply regret that I won't be here to see that ambition realized."

Reeve Ash was elected to Saanich council in December 19[illegible], defeating the incumbent reeve Joseph Casey. Amalgamation of the four Greater Victoria [illegible] parties was a move he favored.

"The people of Saanich should not be led down the garden path and into thinking they are better off on their own, or that taxes will be lower if they remain as a separate entity," he said.

UNQUALIFIED SUPPORT

"This year the people of Saanich elected young men to their council and I cannot help but pay tribute to the young members. They have given me unqualified support."

Reeve Ash paid tribute to Mayor Percy Scurrah for his co-operation and help during Reeve Ash's three-year period. "His understanding and sage advice has always been appreciated," he said.

Coun. George Austin, acting reeve of Saanich, will assume control of the council after June 7 and until the election of the new reeve.

"Naturally I am very disappointed to see the reeve who has taken such a stand as he has pertaining to municipal business leaving us now," he commented last night.

BUSINESS REASONS

"I am sorry to see anything like this happen in the middle of a term but sometimes business reasons complicate things."

Mayor Scurrah expressed regret at Reeve Ash's decision to resign his post and leave B.C.

"I think he has been a good reeve of Saanich," he said. "He has always had the interests of the municipality at heart. He has worked hard and has always been a co-operative reeve.

VERY FAIR

"I found him very fair in his dealings with the city. I am really very sorry to see him go."

Prize-winning homes of Canada selected by the Canadian Housing Design Council will be on display in picture and plan for 10 days starting today in Eaton's windows.

Poaching! Says Sidney

Victoria Chamber of Commerce has been accused of poaching by Dr. C. H. Hemmings, chairman of the Sidney village council.

He told the North Saanich Chamber of Commerce that he had been solicited by the Victoria group to join the Victoria chamber.

"Is this proper?" he asked.

Re-Elected

Edwin E. Peachman was re-elected to his second term as president of Victoria Bar Association at its annual meeting in the courthouse this week. Other officers are J. G. McIntosh, vice-president; E. G. MacMinn, treasurer; John Gould, secretary, and executive committee members J. F. George, Robert J. Harvey, K. G. Morgan, Edwin Popham, Edward St. [illegible], [illegible] Hasston, Angus Smith, Mrs. Marney M. Stevenson, John S. Stone and Miss Anna Wootton.—(Colonist photo by Bud Kinsman.)

Asked Question on Strike

McPhillips 'Doing My Best'

A. DeB. McPhillips, MP for Victoria, is doing everything in his power with regard to the Canadian Pacific ferry strike, he said in a letter to city council.

Mr. McPhillips said he had asked a question of the minister of labor (May 26) and expected the answer would appear in the next morning's Colonist.

"I appreciate that there are those in Victoria who are inclined to overestimate the importance of a private member," he said, "and accordingly expect that I can accomplish the impossible. All I can do is to serve my constituency to the best of my ability and in this instance that is what I have done and will continue to do."

Jaycees May Drop Nanaimo's Parade

NANAIMO—The [illegible] Empire Day parade of 1958 may be followed next year with no parade at all.

In the face of criticism against holding the parade on Saturday this year instead of the traditional Monday, the Junior Chamber of Commerce is threatening to throw in the towel.

It earned from this year's efforts, parade chairman and Jaycee president Les Mottishaw, was described as the greatest parade in Nanaimo's history.

"You can please some of the people some of the time but not all of the people all of the time.

"We felt badly about the animosity caused by our holding the parade on Saturday," said Mr. Mottishaw. He said that 13 members of his committee would suggest to a meeting of the junior chamber in the fall that the organization discontinue [illegible] with the parade and [illegible] the picnic.

"If our efforts cause animosity, we feel that we would be far better out of the picture altogether," said Mr. Mottishaw.

Quartet Wins Awards

Four students in Ladysmith and Duncan received the first awards presented this year in MacMillan and Bloedel's annual scholarship program during graduation exercises yesterday.

University entrance scholarships of $400 each were given to Richard [illegible] and Warda Ladysmith High school and Sharon Diane Robertson, Cowichan High school. General program awards of $250 each went to Brenda Violet Brooke, Ladysmith, and Margaret Jang, Cowichan.

FORESTRY ENGINEER

Student Warda, who hopes to become a forestry engineer, was valedictorian at the graduation ceremonies. Miss Robertson, who will work for a bachelor of science degree in nursing, was a member of her school's student council.

Miss Brooke has been president of the Ladysmith school's student council for the past year and Miss Jang has served on several student groups. All four have been active in [illegible] clubs.

MacMillan and Bloedel awards in the Alberni, Nanaimo, Parksville-Qualicum and Lake Cowichan school districts will be announced shortly.

TV TALK

By Bruce Lowther

Some annual salaries paid by NBC (and reported in Variety) show how a TV network rates its employees.

On the Dinah Shore show producer Bob Banner gets about $250,000, writer John Bradford $61,000, [illegible] and conductor Harry Zimmerman $21,000. Elsewhere NBC program planner Jess Oppenheimer is paid $105,000 a year, actor Dennis O'Keefe gets $85,000, sportscaster Leo Durocher $87,500, Jack Paar's writer Jack Douglas $58,500, comedian Phil Harris $52,000, newscaster Chet Huntley $30,000, program consultant Gummo Marx $27,500 and comedian Eddie Foy a mere $12,000.

* * *

Major league baseball telecasts on Sundays, due to start tomorrow, apparently won't be seen in this area. Channels 7 and 12 do not list the games, apparently because the Seattle Rainiers took advantage of the clause allowing minor league clubs to protect themselves by banning the CBS telecasts, speaking of Sunday shows, it's tomorrow that Wayne and Shuster emcee the Sullivan show.

* * *

TV BITS: The UBC-Oregon-Washington crew race and Frisco-St. Louis game should be good viewing today. Polly Bergen does her last show; best movies are "Day at the Races" and "Dead of Night."

A review for Thursday: Foto's production and the acting of Rosemary Harris, Don Harron and Helen Burns were brilliant in Christopher Fry's "A Phoenix Too Frequent." CBS deserves praise for leaving the heated script and love scenes intact. Would U.S. TV do the same? . . . The system of new movies on pay TV in Bartlesville, Okla., has gone out of business after getting half the customers it needed to break even in the first year. It was been five years for some . . . Laurence Olivier, Kirk Douglas and Charles Laughton will star in a movie called "Spartacus."

Guesses on what will be the best show of the 1958-59 season are hereby declared over. CBC has just announced it will show a 90-minute version of "Hamlet" by England's Old Vic company early next year . . . The excellent movie "Song of Bernadette," which won't be on TV for some years, ends a run at the Plaza Theatre today . . . CBC Close-Up has finally got Robert Service to agree to a filmed interview. The hour-long film will be shown next month . . . It was bound to happen—A prize on Treasure Hunt, an all-expense-paid trip to New York City, was won by a resident of New York City.

Today's Highlights

10.30 a.m. Jimmy Dean with guests Hoagy Carmichael, Peggy King (channels 7 and 12).

2.15 p.m. Yesterday's Newsreel returns (channel 12).

Rita Del Mar's Daily Astrology

SATURDAY, MAY 31

Today's Quotation: "Two persons will not be friends long if they cannot forgive each other's little failings." —La Bruyere.

Saturday for Everyone: Daytime offers chances to benefit through the resources and contacts of others. Keep busy and get things accomplished. Evening: home is a good place to be; keep things on a practical and harmonious basis.

Look for Your Birthdate and Birthsign Below.

March 21 to Apr. 19 (Aries)—Restore your energies and add to your savings [illegible] through the resources [illegible] energy.

Apr. 20 to May 20 (Taurus): Let others lead the parade today; be a cheerful follower; show amenity, helpfulness, cooperation. Evening: maintain accord.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini): Set yourself to brighten your wardrobe. Be eager to serve; outline work prospects. Evening: protect health.

June 21 to July 22 (Cancer): Adopt a weekend mood. Take part in romance; it's a good day. Enlist back[illegible] enjoy [illegible]. Evening: [illegible].

July 23 to Aug. 22 (Leo): Devote this day to welfare of household and its members. Enliven the afternoon. Evening: rest.

Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 (Virgo): Display your congenial qualities; arrive at conclusions; strengthen bonds with others. Evening: use care in [illegible].

Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 (Libra): Cast an eye over budget, possessions, to make helpful adjustments. Give others a boost. Evening: be thrifty.

Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 (Scorpio): You can have a star role this morning; push toward realization of some desire or seek notice [illegible]. Evening: be impersonal.

Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius): Overcome obstacles; finish things or seek quiet meditation. Some happening concerning kin or household may unfold.

Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 (Capricorn): Let pals play a major part in arranging a pleasurable weekend. Be friendly, cooperative. Evening: relax.

Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 (Aquarius): Give thought to wardrobe, commercial, vocational activities. Evening: protect parental [illegible].

Feb. 19 to March 20 (Pisces): You should enjoy some [illegible] today. Make [illegible] trips. Evening: [illegible].

GREETINGS
A REAL ESTATE STORY
By LEE HALLBERG
"The Old Fisherman"
Real property has always had a great appeal to me. I grew up with it from the day my Dad homesteaded on his quarter section in Alberta. When I joined MILTON KING, a man with 38 yrs. experience in Victoria Real Estate, he gave me this sound advice. "LEE, YOUR BUYERS WILL NEVER GO WRONG IF THEY BUY LOCATION." Every day I find this to be a fact and homes in good locations are the homes in demand today. Right now I can offer 4 well-located

Russian Plane 'Visitor'

Eye-in-the-Sky Shocks Ottawa

EDMONTON (CP) — Dr. Trevor Lloyd's special souvenir of Russia has raised some eyebrows in Ottawa.

Dr. Lloyd, head of the geographical department in Dartmouth College, Hanover, N.H., and president of the Canadian Association of Geographers, toured Eastern Europe and Russia last year.

In Leningrad, he met the director of Russia's Arctic research institute. The man gave Dr. Lloyd—himself a specialist in northern geography—a souvenir, a photograph on which he wrote a May, 1956, date.

Dr. Lloyd told a reporter here Thursday that he expected the photo would be of the Russian director. But it turned out to be a picture of an RCAF Lancaster on ice reconnaissance in Arctic.

[illegible] ered the photo had been taken with a small camera—not an aerial camera—from a Russian Arctic institute plane flying nearby. The place: About 90 miles north of Ellesmere Island.

Dr. Lloyd was told in Leningrad that the Russian plane had been on an ice-drilling expedition in the polar regions. The institute director complained about "having to do your (Canada's) work."

The photo eventually was turned over to the defence department in Ottawa. Dr. Lloyd stressed that the Russian plane was on a purely scientific venture.

Husband Fell from Airliner

Bride of One Day Sues for $300,000

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — A woman whose husband was killed in a fall from an airliner on their wedding day has filed a $300,000 damage suit against the airline.

Mrs. Blandine S. Pruitt of Charlotte has filed the suit against Piedmont Aviation, Inc., of Winston-Salem, N.C.

Her husband, Oren Pruitt, 40, fell from a Piedmont plane shortly after it left Charlotte for Asheville. He landed in a cemetery near Shelby, N.C.

The Pruitts, who were on their honeymoon, had been married only a few hours earlier in South Carolina.

Mrs. Pruitt charged in her suit that her husband left his seat to go to the washroom. She said he found the washroom door locked and then turned the handle of an unmarked door. She charged it was an exit door, which blew open, and that the air blast whipped her husband out of the plane.

She charged that the airline was negligent because the purser was not in his usual seat where he could see all of the passengers but was in the cockpit. She also charged that the airline was negligent in not marking the door.

Not 'National'

'Dominion' Legion Choice

EDMONTON (CP) — The Canadian Legion rejects the idea of the word "national" replacing "Dominion" in legion business.

Delegates to the legion's biennial convention voted overwhelmingly to reject the change from "Dominion" to "national" although a Quebec delegate told them the change would keep them in step with "the majority of the Canadian people."

The Dominion convention also decided to change the legion's official name to "The Canadian Legion," deleting the "British Empire Service League" part of its title.

Mining Endeavor Stock Suspended

TORONTO (CP)—The shares of Mining Endeavor Company Limited were suspended from trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange Friday pending clarification by the company of certain information contained in the company's report to shareholders dated April 26, 1958.

Mining Endeavor is an amalgamation of Nib Yellowknife Mines Limited, and Endeavor Mining Corporation Limited, effected in 1956. The company, of which G. A. McCartney of Toronto is president, has holdings in copper, gold and nickel deposits in Ontario and Manitoba. It reported diamond drilling operations under way last year in Manitoba.
